$50,000 Fire Destroys St. Francis Church

Twenty five members of the Roman Catholic clergy and 60 students fled their quarters in the Franciscan Monastery and college, 68 st. and 128 ave., when fire, following an explosion at 1:20 a.m. Tuesday, destroyed the adjoining St. Francis Parish church. Loss was estimated at $50,000.

One member of the clergy, trapped in his room, was rescued by firemen. He was Brother Joseph of the Franciscan order, who was unable to leave his second storey room because of fire. Missed when officials checked the roll, he was found leaning out his open window. Firemen quickly raised a ladder and removed him. He was believed uninjured.

The church was valued at approximately $50,000, and according to Father George Hart, bursar of the monastery, was fully insured. It was the second fire in the church's history. In 1934 it was practically destroyed. It was built in 1910.

Firemen, responding to two alarms, were able to confine the fire to the church section, concentrating hoses on the east church wall, separating the two buildings. Interior of the monastery however was badly damaged by water and smoke.

By 5:00 a.m., after the smoke had cleared away, most of the residents were able to return to their quarters.

When firemen arrived, the blaze seemed confined to the rear vestry section of the church, and for a time it appeared to be almost under control. Shortly before 2:30 a.m., however, flames broke through the rear section of the roof and gained rapidly. A half hour later the entire church interior was blazing.

A heavy pipe organ on a balcony at the front end of the church fell through the floor to the ground, and the top front portion of the church collapsed. Almost at the same time, a high steeple at the rear of the church toppled over and crashed to the ground. Then the entire roof caved in.

For a time it was feared flying embers might ignite the monastery section, and students were allowed in the building to get what clothing and belongings they could. Those were moved to a skating rink shack nearby.

Chapel articles were removed from the monastery chapel by Denis Fairclough, Mat Oberhofer and Ray Porter. Nothing was saved from the church, despite the efforts of priests, who were turned back by flames and smoke.

First to notice the blaze was Father Pennafort Wyllie, the parish priest whose quarters were only a few feet from where the fire is believed to have started. He was awakened by a "loud explosion," and

Damage Estimated At $50,000 As Franciscan Church Burns

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the Franciscan church, 68 st. and 128 ave., early Tuesday and caused 25 Roman Catholic clergy and 60 students in the adjoining college and monastery to flee from their quarters, which were threatened. The picture shows the smoke and flames and the outline of the burning structure, as the fire roared out of control. It was the second fire in the church's history. The first was in 1934, at which time the building was practically destroyed.

"I'm a brother."

Alberta Muskrat Project Proceeds

By H. R. Hardy

OTTAWA—Steps are being taken to proceed with the proposed large muskrat raising project in the delta of the Athabasca river and as soon as a report has been received from an engineer appointed to investigate the provincial lands portion of the area, further negotiations with the province will be proceeded with, Mines and Resources Minister Glen informed the commons Monday.

Mr. Glen was answering a question by Joseph Dechene, L.B., Athabasca.

Mr. Glen stated that following preliminary negotiations with the province it was decided further information should be obtained as to the potential production and cost of development.

The area, comprising some 200,000 acres, is composed partly of Indian reserve lands and partly of provincial owned lands. The Indian lands have already been surveyed and an estimate of development cost submitted. When the provincial lands above been similarly checked, the federal government will be in a position to re-open negotiations, said Mr. Glen.

E. S. Huestis, Alberta Fish and Game commissioner, said Tuesday that the provincial ground survey would be completed by late next fall or early next winter, opening the way for completion of negotiations.

They reported that Ducks Unlimited, because the project would not only benefit muskrat raising but would restore some of Canada's nesting grounds for waterfowl, was carrying out the survey of the provincial half of the area, under supervision of the department of lands and mines.

When surveys are completed, the provincial and federal governments will negotiate on sharing of cost of installing a series of dams to raise the delta water level, and sharing of maintenance costs.

Airman Tossed Into Atlantic

NEW YORK (AP)—A navigator sighting on the stars from his plastic bubble atop Trans-World Airline's "Star of Hollywood" was tossed through the dome and dropped four miles into the Atlantic ocean 500 miles out of Gander, Newfoundland, Monday night, T.W.A. officials announced.

Victim of the freak accident was George Hart of Sag Harbor, Long Island, N.Y., officials said.

The plane, flying at an air speed of about 250 miles an hour made a safe return to the Gander airport.

The United States coast guard sent a message to all ships in the area to be on the lookout for the lost navigator but said there was scant possibility he could have survived the long fall.

A report from Gander said the 21 passengers "hardly knew anything had happened until the plane landed at Gander."

Reports received here did not state whether other members of the 10-man crew saw Navigator Hart leave the plane or what had caused the pressurized plastic dome to break and the navigator to be thrown upward through the opening.

Hoover Recommends Relief to Austria

WASHINGTON (AP)—Herbert Hoover recommended Monday that an estimated $155,000,000 be spent for Australian relief during the next 15 months but said the country probably could be self-supporting by 1950 or 1951 if its land and equipment were freed by a peace treaty and foreign troops removed from its soil.

Hoover's proposal was made in a report to President Truman after investigating Central Europe's relief needs.

Reveals Canada Refused Plea To Keep Troops in Germany

By Richard Sanburn

OTTAWA—Prime Minister King revealed in the commons Monday that Britain in January, 1946, had asked Canada to reconsider its decision to withdraw the Canadian occupation force from Germany.

The British request was not granted, nor was the Canadian decision changed by a conference in London later that same month when the question of Canadian occupation forces was again discussed by Prime Minister Atlee, External Affairs Minister St. Laurent, and other Canadian government officials.

Decision to withdraw the Canadian occupation force was made in December, 1945, said Mr. King, with the repatriation to start in April, 1946.

On Jan. 3, 1946, the United Kingdom asked Canada to reconsider this decision to withdraw the Canadian force. It was pointed out that Britain would have to keep men in Germany who had been overseas for five years.

Britain on that occasion asked for one Canadian division and elements of the R.C.A.F.

This request was turned down by Canada.

Later that same month, on Jan. 22, 1946, Prime Minister Atlee conferred in London with External Affairs Minister St. Laurent and other members of the Canadian government, and the whole matter of the Canadian occupation force was gone over again.

A report was made to the Canadian cabinet after this meeting, but once again Canada stood firm in her decision to bring its occupation army home.

In announcing to Britain that the Canadian army would be withdrawn, these were the points made: 1. Administrative problems in maintaining a force of 25,000 plus 11 R.C.A.F. squadrons so far from home.

Figure Skating Queen To Spurn 'Pro' Offers

Pretty Barbara Ann Scott holds the key to the cream-colored convertible car presented to her by the City of Ottawa.

MONTREAL (CP)—Barbara Ann Scott, queen of the figure skating world, reiterated Monday her determination to spurn professional offers, at least until after the Olympic games.

Finding time in the midst of a busy "official" day in Montreal to talk to newspapermen, the pretty Ottawa champion said her motto is "Olympics or bust."

"I am very, very fond of being an amateur and love competing," she said. "There is a rumor that after the Olympics the world figure skating championships will be held in Canada and if so I should want to skate in my own country."

TORONTO (CP)—Mounted police were forced to disperse a crowd of hundreds of well-wishers Tuesday to permit Barbara Ann Scott to make her way into the King Edward hotel from an automobile which had brought her from Malton airport.

At the airport, Canada's sweetheart was greeted by Mayor Robert Saunders and an official delegation.

Britain, France Back Stand Taken by U.S.

Would-Be 'Hitler' Is Given 12 Years

BERLIN (AP)—Carl Born, leader of the so-called German Freedom party, has been sentenced to 12 years imprisonment by an Allied military court on a charge of participating in political activities tending to undermine the authority of the military government, to glorify militarism and to establish a Nazi-like regime. British authorities announced Tuesday.

Plan for Yukon Assailed by Black

By John Bird

OTTAWA — George Black, Prog. Cons. Yukon, assailed the government's "impossible and impractical" plan of adding the district of Mackenzie to the electoral district of Yukon when he spoke in the throne speech debate Monday. He doubted whether the government could in earnest, so monstrous did the scheme seem to him, adding to his constituency "over 500,000 square miles of wilderness."

From the point of view of transportation, for example, the plan was so impractical that Mr. Black felt public opinion in the Mackenzie itself would revolt. "I predict that before the present legislation becomes law, in its present atrocious form, the people in the Mackenzie district themselves will protest, and will not submit to being so ruthlessly pushed around," Mr. Black thought that they would rather remain unrepresented than accept representation on the "fantastically ridiculous terms proposed."

Mr. Black complained that while the North West Territories was to be granted $3,306,000 (of which $1,130,000 was for roads) by contrast the Yukon was to receive only some $155,000 in the government's main estimates.

He did not grudge the Territories their appropriations, but he felt that the Yukon was deserving of equal treatment.

He added, "They are to have a water and sewage system installed at Yellowknife townsite at a cost of $745,000. Whoever heard of a municipal project of that kind being paid for by a federal government?"

Towns in the Yukon have to pay for their own sewage systems, and the people who use them have to pay for them. But here the federal government makes the town of Yellowknife a present of $745,000. It is properly a municipal project."

Ontario to Levy Corporation Tax

TORONTO (CP)—Provincial Treasurer Frost Tuesday announced the first major tax changes in Ontario in eight years—imposition of a seven-per-cent levy on corporations and an increase to 11 cents in the province's eight-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax.

Mr. Frost estimated the tax changes would provide new revenue of $50,500,000 in the province's next fiscal year beginning April 1—$38,500,000 from the corporation tax, which is retroactive to Jan. 1, and $12,000,000 from the gasoline tax, effective March 31.

He linked both taxes to dominion-provincial relations. The dominion had undertaken to reduce its corporation taxes by 10 percent this year on termination of the wartime tax agreement which expires at the end of the month. Moreover, the dominion had announced that on March 31 it would vacate the gasoline tax field and reduce it to three cents—a gallon tax it has levied since 1941. The tax announced by Mr. Frost does not mean any increase in the over-all gasoline tax which will remain at 11 cents a gallon.

Mr. Frost set at rest speculation as to the possibility of a personal income tax in Ontario. None would be levied this year and there would be no increase in succession duties, he said.

Leduc No. 2 Well 3,800 Feet Deep

Leduc No. 2 well of Imperial Oil Limited, in the new Leduc field, reached a depth of 3,800 feet early Tuesday. Drilling crews have worked day and night shifts to sink this hole, which is expected to show signs of production in another 1,200 feet.

Leduc No. 1, the company's well which kicked in about one month ago, has been kept on test flow production since then. One-quarter inch choke which was limiting flow to about 275 barrels daily in recent weeks was changed Monday to a five-sixteenths of an inch choke.

Monday's production with the slightly larger choke was 315 barrels. Report from Leduc field this week indicated that Continental Oil Company, an independent Calgary firm, will drill a well in the area. It was reported the company would drill about three and one-half miles south of the one producer now in the field.

WILL EXECUTE WOMAN THE HAGUE (Reuters)—For the first time in Dutch legal history a woman, Mrs. Van Dijk, was sentenced to death by a Dutch court Monday at Amsterdam. Right to appeal was refused. The 42-year-old woman was alleged to have betrayed six Jews to the Nazi security service.

MOSCOW, (AP)—France and Britain sided with the United States Tuesday in the four-power foreign ministers' meeting to block a Soviet attempt to place a discussion of China on the conference agenda.

The western powers held during the long discussion that if China were to be discussed, then China must be represented.

(China's foreign minister, Wang Shih-chieh, issued a statement in Nanking announcing that his country "will not in any manner agree to inclusion of its problems" in the agenda.)

Foreign Minister Molotov brought up the Chinese question Monday.

It was not generally believed that Molotov would agree to have Chinese representatives invited here. A wave of speculation followed Molotov's unheralded proposal and some sources suggested that Russia might be maneuvering to seek joint American, British and Russian intervention in China.

There also was the possibility that Russia might be trying to embarrass the United States because of the recent United States failure to end China's civil strife. In addition, some quarters thought Russia might be trying to produce a new big power agreement concerning China.

The 1945 Big Three agreement reached in Moscow, upon which Molotov based Monday's proposal, specified that the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union "reaffirmed their adherence to the policy of non-interference in the internal affairs of China."

Whatever his aim, Molotov appeared headed for an ultimate, if not immediate, clash with U.S. Secretary Marshall on the China question, in addition to the scheduled disputes over Germany and Austrian peace treaties.

Marshall's policy, after 13 months of trying—and failing—to produce peace in China, currently stresses a hands-off attitude to give Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Chinese Communists a chance to work out their own salvation.

Marshall blocked an immediate vote on Molotov's proposal to place China on the agenda. Marshall then countered with a diplomatic surprise of his own, suggesting that the conference discuss limitation of Allied troops in occupied countries of Europe.

Recalls 1945 Conference Molotov, who presided over the opening session of the Moscow meeting, said China should be discussed.

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio said Tuesday the deputies of the four-power council of foreign ministers had agreed to a Soviet proposal to place the future of displaced persons high on the agenda of the Moscow conference. The deputies Tuesday began their second day of sessions in Moscow.

6 Men Trapped in Collapse Of Building in Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP)—A five-story building collapsed in downtown Cincinnati Tuesday and Fire Chief Barney J. Houston said he believed six men trapped in the debris were still alive.

Houston instructed firemen to start searching through the elevator shaft after he was told that three men were riding in the elevator when the structure crashed.

Before the building fell, escaping water had undermined a 40-foot section of the street and flooded the basement of the building.

Several men were said to have been working in the flooded basement of the supply company at the time of the collapse.

The building was 50 feet wide and 75 feet long. All but a portion of the first floor caved in.

MADRID (AP)—Advices from Corboda reported Tuesday that seven persons were killed and 12 injured in a nearby village in the collapse of a house undermined by recent rains.

Revolt Continues To Grip Paraguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—Communication in and out of Paraguay was virtually blocked out Tuesday, making it difficult to learn the true situation in that troubled country, where government troops Monday night were reported preparing an all-out attack on an insurgent stronghold in the city of Concepcion.

The government radio appealed to Concepcion's 15,000 inhabitants to evacuate the northern city before the attack was launched. The residents also were urged to dig bomb-proof shelters, because government planes soon would drop "heavy bombs" on the revolutionists.

Periodic appeals were broadcast by the government to a Maj. Aguirre, who it termed the current leader of the rebellion, demanding his troops surrender.

The revolt—apparently part of a plot against the government of President Higinio Morinigo—began last Friday, when a band, headed by the government, was composed of Communists and members of the opposition Febrerista party, attacked the police office at Asuncion, causing the deaths of six soldiers and a civilian.

Drumheller Youth Killed in Accident

DRUMHELLER—Gordon Clausen, 13, of Newcastle, died in Drumheller hospital Tuesday as result of being accidentally shot in the abdomen by a companion Monday night.

As far as it can be ascertained, the boy and two others were preparing to go out rabbit hunting in nearby hills. They loaded a sawed-off 22 calibre rifle and it went off with the bullet striking Gordon.

The accident is under investigation.

New 'Loafing Barns' Latest Cow Luxury

NEW YORK (AP)—A state experiment in which dairymen provide "loafing barns" for their cows is showing that cows who enjoy this new freedom to come and go are providing better milk, Dr. Fred W. Graves reported Monday.

Speaking to the Metropolitan Certified Milk Producers association, Dr. Graves, senior state milk sanitarian, said cows in the "loafing barns" are not tethered to stanchions, as in a regular barn. They stay clean, eat more roughage, and have fewer accidents, he said.

Will Reduce Week For U.K. Miners

LONDON (CP)—Labor Minister Isaac told the commons Tuesday that a five-day week for British miners is expected to be in operation in May.

Opening the second day of a three-day debate on the government's economic policy, Isaac said 100,000 additional persons must be induced to enter the mining industry this year so that the minimum target of 200,000,000 tons of coal could be produced.

He said he intended to discuss with promoters of Britain's big ball pools industry methods by which manpower requirements could be restricted in number and limited to a type of labor unsuitable for industrial employment. If this failed, it might be necessary to take other steps.

Industries manufacturing goods for export must hire 500,000 additional workers by the end of 1949.

Chauffeur Admits Triangle Slaying

VALE, Ore. (AP)—A young chauffeur related to a circuit court jury Monday the story of a clandestine love affair with his comely red-haired employer that ended in the slaying of her wealthy husband.

Alvin Lee Williams, 23, told a jury hearing the first degree murder trial of Gladys Lincoln Broadhurst how he slugged W. D. Broadhurst with a wrench and then slit him while the woman's words "Don't fail me" were still ringing in his ears.

Broadhurst, retired chiropractor, was killed along a lonely road near here last Oct. 14.

The witness said 40-year-old Mrs. Broadhurst suggested removal of her husband while Williams was in chauffeur on a vacation trip to California. The killing was plotted, he said, after they saw the movie entitled, "The Postman Always Rings Twice."

Williams is scheduled to go on trial later.

Says U.S. Improves German Rockets

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Improving on German ingenuity which introduced the world to rocket warfare, the United States army says its guided missiles—researched in well along toward developing American rockets calculated to be "far superior" to any employed by the Nazis.

The progress report came from Lt.-Col. Harold R. Turner, ordnance specialist who has directed experiments the last year at the White Sands, N.M., proving ground.

Turner disclosed military men and scientists have been firing as many as five American-built rockets for every German V-2 sent into the New Mexico skies—up to 14 miles. So far, all have been smaller than the 14½-ton V-2.

Rioting Flares Anew in Punjab

LAHORE, India, (Reuters)—Troops were sent Tuesday to deal with fresh outbreaks of rioting and arson in riot-torn Punjab while police stood by in three India cities ready to check possible violence during "anti-Pakistan day" work stoppage. ## ALBERTA MOTOR TRANSPORT ASS'N CLARIFIES POSITION

Press reports of Saturday, March 1st, indicate that Mr. L. D. Ward, representing the Navy personnel in the provincial legislature, in speaking in the throne speech debate in the legislature at Edmonton, was perturbed over the fact that regulations will be effective April 15th (unless changed by the present session of the legislature) which will make necessary the holding of public hearings for all applicants for new Public Service Vehicle Certificates.

The policy of the Alberta Motor Transport Association regarding veterans has been, and still is, that all individuals who were in the commercial trucking industry at the time they joined the armed forces should receive their certificates without question if they so desire, upon their release from the services, and that all employees of the industry who joined the armed services should be given their employment upon their release. This has been done. We are convinced that if other industries had co-operated in this matter, the problem of employment for discharged personnel from the armed services would have been solved.

The regulation the Alberta Motor Transport Association is desirous of having implemented is that the Highway Traffic Board hold public hearings for all applicants for new Public Service Vehicle Certificates. We believe that each individual who now holds a certificate should be given a new certificate without question.

The following reasons make necessary the implementation of this regulation. During the license year 1944-45, there were 4,625 P.S.V. Certificates issued in the Province of Alberta. In the license year 1946-47, as at February 15th, there were 6,741 P.S.V. Certificates in the Province of Alberta, a two year increase of 21.1%. This is less than the increase in the license year 1944-45.

From these figures, it should be evident to anyone that nothing but chaos confronts the trucking industry in this province if this condition is permitted to continue. There are more trucks than there is freight to haul, with the resultant deterioration of services, and a lowering of the living standards of both owner-operator and employee.

It has been further suggested that the controls advocated by the Alberta Motor Transport Association will lead to a monopoly in the trucking industry. This statement is false in its entirety, and false in its detail. What we are actually requesting is that the Highway Traffic Board, which is an independent agency, set up for the purpose of regulating the trucking industry in the public interest, shall hold public hearings for the purpose of determining if public necessity and convenience exist for an additional truck service in any particular area of the province, exactly and precisely similar conditions to those at present employed for determining the public necessity and convenience of an additional bus service. No monopoly exists in the bus industry, but the services as a result have been improved, and the general public using this mode of transportation have benefited.

In the license year 1945-46, the Canadian Pacific Railways had five P.S.V. trucks operating in this province. At the present time they have increased this number of licenses to fifteen, including two semi-trailer units. These trucks of the Canadian Pacific Express Company are in competition with individual truck operators who have pioneered and developed this mode of transportation in this province, and they, the independent operators, have not a ghost of a chance of successfully competing with the Canadian Pacific Express Company because of the fact that the truck operation of this particular financial corporation is not a competitive element, due to the fact that sections of their operation can be, and have been, subsidized.

During the 19th Century and the early part of the 20th Century, under the conditions to which so many gladly refer to as free competition, the right of the individual to enter into business for himself, etc., was the spawning ground of monopolies as we know them today, and during the early part of the 20th Century in the United States and Canada, it was necessary for the Federal governments of these countries to introduce anti-monopoly and trust legislation, and if the present conditions which are in existence in Alberta are permitted to continue, the C.P.R. will have complete monopoly of transportation in this province. When that day arrives, the consumer and the shipper will pay rates which (if granted) will make the application for a 30% increase look like a piker's effort.

In the other provinces of Canada, as well as every state in the United States, Northern Ireland, England (for the past 20 years), New Zealand, Australia, South Africa, the governments have recognized the necessity of adequate control over the motor transport industry in the public interest, and have applied such controls. Alberta stands alone in her attitude toward the promiscuous issuing of P.S.V. Certificates, and the condition of the trucking industry in this province is substantially worse than in any of the above-mentioned countries. The turn-over in the industry here was approximately 30% before the war.

We believe it is the responsibility of the government to legislate, in the public interest, and to advise the returned soldier, through their established boards, of the actual conditions existing in any particular line of endeavor in which the returned veteran is desirous of entering. The present method of promiscuously issuing P.S.V. Certificates to the returned soldier and allowing him to commence operations in an area or industry where he has not the slightest chance of successfully competing, will stand as a lasting monument of the ingratitude of the government toward those men who did so much for the preservation of this country and its institutions.

It is the privilege and also the responsibility of Mr. Ward, or anyone else, to discuss any matter of public interest and to place their views before the public.

Owing to the present method of truck licensing in this province, hundreds of returned soldiers have already lost their gratuities and re-establishment credits by venturing into the trucking business, and before another year goes by, hundreds more will be in the same position. It is not our purpose, now or ever, to advocate a policy which will lead to the impoverishment of returned veterans and civilians alike, with no one benefitting but the companies which manufacture the trucks.

The late Joseph Eastman, who was recognized as the greatest authority on all forms of transportation in this continent, and who was chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission in the United States for a number of years, and who was, during the war years, appointed Director of all Transportation for the United States, has said "Free competition has its abuses as well as monopoly. It is the responsibility of government to legislate and regulate in the public interest a course between these two which will do the greatest amount of good to the greatest number of people."

This is precisely what the Alberta Motor Transport Association is asking our Provincial Government to implement. This is the only possible means by which the public can be safeguarded and the possibility of a transportation monopoly eliminated.

JACK TAYLOR,

Secretary, Alberta Motor Transport Association.

Reveals U.K. Plea On Troops Refused

home would be far out of proportion to the size of the force.

3. European war Allies would be in a position to make a larger contribution to the occupation forces after 1946.

4. It was stressed that while Canada was being asked to provide an occupation force Canada was to have no voice in the direction of policy in Germany.

Before War Ended

Mr. King also told the house that the decision to place an occupation force in Germany was made in January, 1945, before the war ended. However, even in announcing this to Britain, it was stressed that there would be a demand to have the Canadians come home after so long overseas, certainly that they should be brought home before United States forces which had been away for a considerably shorter time.

It was clear in January, 1945, that Canada would not undertake to provide an occupation force for the whole period of military occupation of Germany. It was then stated that Canada would provide a force, but that the situation would have to be reviewed before the end of March, 1946.

The same communication said, "It is uncertain, moreover, for how long after the fighting there will be a demand to have the Canadian occupation forces in view of the fact that the plans for the control of Germany give the Canadian government no voice in the direction of policy."

Mr. King's prepared statement on Monday, his first appearance in the house in three weeks, climaxed a period of tension on this matter of occupation of Germany by Canadian forces. The government has been questioned on it repeatedly during the recent debate on foreign affairs.

Says No Shortage Volunteers Existed

By Richard Sanburn

OTTAWA, (CP)—Mr. George R. Pearkes, V.C., Prof. Cons. Nanaimo, said Tuesday he believed there would have been no shortage of volunteers to maintain the Canadian occupation forces in Europe.

"The prime minister's frank statement Monday confirmed the fears that many people held that the decision to withdraw the Canadian occupation force was made solely by Mr. King's cabinet, in spite of appeals from the British government for continued assistance in the arduous task of reconstructing Europe," Gen. Pearkes said.

"During the war, the manpower of Great Britain had been drained to a dangerously low ebb. It is not surprising that her statesmen were appalled at the gigantic task facing them, and would ask other nations of the British Commonwealth to bear a share of the burden."

"Far from being kicked out—or left out—the government ordered the Canadian troops to wait."

"The Canadian army is still on active service. An opportunity has been lost to provide the permanent forces with valuable experience, which many young Canadians would have welcomed."

He believed that there would have been no lack of volunteers to maintain the Canadian occupation force, and the presence of this force in Europe would have enhanced Canada's prestige at the peace councils of the world.

"During a recent debate on the matter, Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, secretary of state for external affairs, was generally reported to have said that the Canadian occupation force 'was kicked out' of Europe. The official version of Hansard, however, reports him as having said 'left out'."

Gen. Pearkes believes that neither version was in accordance with the facts. He says the Canadian force "walked out" on orders of the Canadian government.

Gouzenko Appears Montreal Court

MONTREAL, (CP)—Igor Gouzenko, 28-year-old Russian who was information in 1945 led to Canada's espionage probe, made a brief appearance Tuesday at the conspiracy trial of Dr. Raymond Boyer, Montreal scientist.

Gouzenko, former cipher clerk at the Russian embassy in Ottawa, was called by the crown for identification purposes only during testimony by Harold Main, St. Vital, Man., photographer and the Russian's 1946 neighbor in an Ottawa apartment house.

Main was telling the king's bench court jury of the now familiar visit by the group of Russian officials to Gouzenko's apartment on a September, 1945, night after the former clerk had quit the embassy. Gouzenko was escorted into the courtroom by six plain clothemen.

Nazi Plot Claimed Foiled in Austria

VIENNA, (Reuters)—The Austrian ministry of the interior Tuesday announced discovery of a highly-organized Nazi plot to put Nazi into position of authority in Austria.

The plotters were stated to have worked out a complete program showing how former Nazis planned to infiltrate into, and gradually dominate, Austrian public life. The organizer was Walter Raffeisberger, an engineer recently arrested with 57 other ex-Nazis in the western zones of Austria, the ministry stated.

Abasand Re-Buys Oil Sands Plant

OTTAWA, (CP)—The government has completed negotiations with Abasand Oils Limited and the holdings of bituminous sands in Alberta have been returned to the company for operation. Resources Minister Glen Monday informed J. M. Dechene, L. Athabasca in a common return.

The agreement, dated Nov. 1, 1946, provides that the company pay the federal government before Nov. 1, 1948, the sum of $139,861 for certain rights to five cents a barrel for each barrel of bitumen produced or contained in bituminous sands sold or disposed of otherwise. The first payment will be due at the end of the year from the date when production starts.

Mr. Glen said the agreement did not provide for immediate resumption of operations "but it is understood that the company proposes to continue exploration and development."

Deposits of bitumen recently explored in the McMurray area in the north of the province of Alberta, subject to certain exploratory trials, granted to Abasand Oils Ltd., Mr. Glen also informed Mr. Dechene.

Knowledge that Abasand Oils, Ltd., was going to continue exploration and development of the oil sands was pleasing to the Alberta government, stated Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, Tuesday. He said the provincial government had no objections to the agreement between the federal government and the Abasand Oils, Ltd., company.

"As far as we are concerned," said Mr. Tanner, "it is a deal between two parties, involving the transfer of rights from one to another, a deal in which the Alberta government is not involved."

Officials in the company's executive offices in Edmonton, outside of corroborating the Ottawa report, did not enlarge upon it. "The agreements have not progressed that far yet," said one. "We cannot say when we will be able to resume operations, but it cannot be until after agreements with the federal government are entirely completed. There still is much to be done."

Bill to Control B.C. Strike Votes

VICTORIA, (CP)—British Columbia's new labor bill, with provision for a government-supervised ballot before a strike can take place is expected to be introduced in the legislature this week.

If adopted, British Columbia will be the first province in the dominion to require a government-supervised secret strike ballot.

It was reported Monday that a coalition caucus has approved incorporation in the bill of the supervised ballot and also sanctioned representation of labor for revocable check-off of union dues. Employers' representatives sought the secret strike vote, claiming that union executives dominated such balloting and that the rank and file had little to say.

Fire Loss $50,000 At City Church

saw flames shooting from the rear portion of the church. He shouted an alarm. Brother Cairner, hearing the cry, rang the fire bell to awaken students, then called the fire department.

All Out Quickly

"Everyone was out in about 10 minutes," Father Hart said. "We called everyone together and made a check to see if everyone was out. Brother Joseph was the only one missing, so we went to his window and saw him with the window open. Firemen had him out in no time."

Most spectacular moments of the two-and-one-half hour blaze came at 2:35 a.m. The steeply looking like a 20 foot fiery cross with flames leaping high above it, swayed back and forth for several seconds before it toppled.

Several hundred district residents, many armed with cameras crowded to the scene to watch the firemen at work, by firemen.

Superior of the monastery and college is Father Alphonsus Labadie, former army chaplain who returned from a Montreal trip Tuesday morning to find the church destroyed. In his absence, Father Wyley was in charge.

Second Time Trapped

For Brother Joseph, it was the second time to be trapped in a fire. Thirteen years ago when the same church burned he was trapped in his room, and was removed unconscious, by firemen.

The fire gave Brother Cairner the first opportunity to use a new fire alarm system he installed only last Saturday. He is the "electrician" brother at the monastery and founded his new system effective.

When the alarm rang, however, most of the students, thinking it was just the morning bell, and that it was time to get up, rolled over for an extra few winks of sleep. Only on the insistence of others that "it's a fire" were they roused.

Tuesday's fire was the second large fire in the city this year and brought the total loss to approximately $150,000. Loss was estimated at $100,000 in a fire Feb. 27 which destroyed the Royal apartment hotel, 97 st. and 103A ave.

MANCHESTER, England, (AP)—Sixteen-year-old Joseph Gibson was sentenced Tuesday at Manchester to be detained "during the king's pleasure" for the "Red Riding Hood murder" of a 10-year-old girl.

The court said the sentence was the only one permitted under the law for a murder defendant under the age of 18. Gibson had pleaded guilty to the strangulation of Sheila Gowrie in an alley behind her home on Jan. 22, while the child was on her way to her grandmother's house.

Pope Tells Ideas For Lasting Peace

World Copyright, 1947, by the Associated Press

VATICAN CITY, (AP)—On the eve of the eighth anniversary of his coronation, Pope Pius told the Associated Press Tuesday that nations must surrender some of their sovereign rights if a just and lasting peace is to be achieved.

The development of destructive atomic weapons, with the total war they threaten, should persuade the leaders of nations of their obligation to reach agreements insuring peace, he said.

In the last year there has been no marked improvement in the world's outlook for peace, he said.

The pontiff evidently was preoccupied over the prospects for the Moscow conference of foreign ministers, which opened Monday. He nodded assent to comment that the circumstances of the conference's beginning did not augur well for solid achievements in the shaping of peace.

Despite the indefatigable diligence and determined efforts made by certain statesmen, and some progress for the moment along one or another particular line, the pope said Tuesday, the events of the last year do not add up to a marked improvement in the world's outlook for a just and lasting peace.

Moreover, he said, he is afraid that this unfortunate condition will continue so long as the peace of Europe and of the world is considered solely under the light of what each state demands for its own individual security.

Poles, Czechs Sign Pact for Defence

Asks Britain Claim Strategic Islands

LONDON, (Reuters).—A suggestion that Britain follow the example of the United States and Russian governments and lay claims to strategic islands for future defence was made in the commons Monday by Capt. L. D. Gammans, a Conservative.

Gammans asked Arthur Henderson, under-secretary for India and Burma, why, since the United States and Russian governments were claiming islands and territories "all over the world," Britain should not claim the islands of Nicobar and Andaman, off the coast of Burma, for strategic protection of Malaya and Ceylon.

Henderson said he did not think Britain should necessarily follow the example of other countries in obtaining islands. Gammans said most of the 12,000 Indians on Andaman were criminals sent from India. The islands were in no sense part of India.

Say $15 Painting May Be Original
WINNIPEG, (CP).—William J. Cunningham, Winnipeg amateur art collector and one-time secretary to the board of trustees of the National Gallery of Canada, wondered Monday whether the painting he bought at a downtown auction for $15 is a 450-year-old original of the German painter, Lucas Cranach.

The painting is one of Martin Luther and one of the distinctive features is the hands. "These show all the influence of Cranach's work and are representative of Luther's familiar poses. Luther and the artist were great friends as well as contemporaries," Cunningham said.

But he doubts whether anyone in Canada could say whether the painting is an actual Cranach. All the light the auction room can throw on the situation is that the painting came to Canada from Scotland a short time ago.

Rubber Boots Become The Fashion As Floods Hit Boston

Water flowed ankle-deep recently in Boston as the roaring surf beat against the seawalls at Boston's Winthrop Shore Drive and sent towering columns of spray 30 and 40 feet in the air. The heavy storm drove a blanket of snow before it, covering practically the entire Atlantic seaboard. Children living near the shore drive spent most of the day wading in the water. Any persons passing through the area were forced to wear high boots. The storm was one of the worst in Boston in many years.

Miami Newspaper Is Sent by Radio

MIAMI, Fla., (AP).—The Miami Herald went to press by radio Monday with a facsimile newspaper.

The first public demonstration of the 8 by 11½-inch newspaper of the future was made by frequency modulation broadcast from the Herald's editorial room to Miami Edison high school.

In the school's assembly room some 1,200 students gathered to watch the silent, visual broadcast. As they looked, the newspaper unfolded page by page before their eyes.

Facsimile does its job by scanning a news page or photograph and broadcasting radio impulses into black and white again.

The Herald plans continuous publication of a facsimile edition later in the year.

Second Big Antarctic Oasis Found by Exploring Planes

By Thomas R. Henry
WITH NAVY ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION, (NANA).—A second large antarctic oasis, like a string of emeralds along the antarctic continent, has been discovered by this expedition, now on its way back to the United States. It consists of a succession of green lakes, the largest more than four miles long, covering an area of more than 200 square miles.

This apparently is a region heated by some great underground furnace where glaciers have retreated. This is also indicated by little pack ice near the coast, which indicates the water perhaps is heated.

The evidence of volcanic activity apparently is clearer here than in the larger oases found a month ago. Long straight black lines, the width of a two-lane highway, cross brown ice-free soil. These probably are the remains of old lava flows.

Doukhobor Sect Burns 75 Bibles

NELSON, B.C., (CP).—Sons of Freedom, radical Doukhobor sect, destroyed about 75 bibles in front of the Glade, B.C., community hall Sunday in protest against judgments handed down in connection with arson charges during the past few years.

About 150 Sons of Freedom from Glade and Brilliant, B.C., joined in the demonstration, the bibles being burned in an oil drum, while members of the Spiritual Community of Christ, orthodox Doukhobor group, watched.

The group protested that "over the same bible" an innocent man had been sent to jail, while a guilty man had been allowed to go free.

They Deserve a Chance

Students at the University of Alberta have two worries on their minds just now. Examinations are looming up in the foreground, and casting their shadows ahead. And for many of the students there is also looming the question of how they are going to earn some money when the examinations are over and classes are dismissed for the summer.

To the veterans who are taking courses, this question is urgent, because their allowances from the D. V. A. stop when the holidays start. For those of them who have taken on the responsibilities of married life, the urgency is intensified. These simply must have summer jobs. Which means that they must be employed, by somebody.

Fortunately the outlook is for a summer of great activity. There are large building programs to be carried through in cities and towns. New industrial concerns are being established and the old ones expanded. Northern development is spreading and speeding up. There is a demand for labor on the farms. These are favoring conditions, for students as for others who are looking for summer employment.

But the students face a disadvantage also. By the time they get through with the examinations spring work may be well under way and staffs already engaged. They will be too late for jobs in some instances. Employers can help if they will remember this. It may be possible for some to plan operations in expectation of taking on some students when these are released. That should be good strategy, as well as a helpful move. Young people who have what it takes to work their way through college are likely to be good workers anywhere.

Our "Basic Industry"

Last summer was not uniformly favorable for crop production in Alberta. In some areas the yields were poor. But the average was above normal, and the gross returns from agriculture set a new record. The estimated total, cited by Premier Manning in his budget statement, was $432,197,000. This was $74,000,000 more than the total for 1945, and more than twice the total for 1940.

Grain crops made up the big item in farm revenue. $243,000,000. Livestock marketing, at $91,000,000 showed a decrease of $12,000,000 from the 1945 figures. A decline of $13,000,000 in hog production was not quite offset by increases in other branches.

Returns from products of natural resources other than land came second on the production list. The total was $74,000,000, just about equal to the year's gain in farm output. Of this sum coal accounted for $32,720,000, oil $14,348,000, and forest products $15,000,000.

These figures show the position agriculture occupies in the provincial economy. More than five times as much money comes from this source as from all enterprises engaged in the development of natural resources other than land.

This comparison is deceptive in the sense that prices of some kinds of farm products are at present relatively higher than money values of other resource-products. And also in the sense that agriculture has been more extensively expanded than mineral—and industrial—development. The picture may change as more oil, coal, and lumber are produced.

But at present Alberta is predominantly an agricultural province. To a degree that may well be surprising even to those who are well aware of the fact that farming is our basic industry. The figures cited emphasize the point in a striking way.

"Tightening Up"

A minor item in the estimates brought down at Ottawa provides for a substantial increase in the cost of collecting taxes. While less tax-money is to be collected, the estimates indicate that it will cost about two and a quarter millions more to operate the collecting machinery than it is costing this year. Nearly two millions of this extra money is earmarked for wages and other expenses at district taxation offices.

These are the offices to which taxpayers send their personal income tax returns. The inference drawn by correspondents at the capital is that these offices are going to sharpen their scrutiny of the forms, and "tighten up" generally, in order to see that no one escapes paying and that each pays his proper amount.

It will be advisable therefore for every person liable to income taxation to send in his return promptly, and to take care that his statement is properly made out. To have to do this is of course a nuisance, but the penalties for not making a return are severe, while an improperly filled return leads to still further bother. The chances that either offence will be overlooked will be fewer since the offices are to be more heavily staffed.

No one can rightly object to such "tightening up". Fairness requires that everyone pay who is liable, and that each pays his full share. If any evade paying or paying in full, other taxpayers have to make up the difference.

The great majority who are taxable do make out returns, and do show the full amount of their liability. The evader or the chiseler is cheating his neighbors—not the officials, nor the government. Those who pay have a legitimate and real financial interest in seeing that no would-be evader gets away with it.

Pathological Cases

A bill is before the legislature of New York dealing with sex offenders and offences. It could fittingly be commended to the attention of authorities in this country. Here sex maniacs, whose offences have been short of homicide, continue to receive short sentences before being turned loose on society to repeat the offence, over which they appear to have no control.

The New York bill provides for the commitment of such an offender to an institution for treatment after he has been convicted but before he is sentenced and for his return to court for sentence after (and if) he has been "cured".

It seems reasonable to think that if an offender has been adjudged insane he should not later on be punished for something he did while in that state.

This questionable provision aside, the New York bill is one which the parliament of Canada could well copy. A sex maniac should be turned over to the doctors, not just locked up for a season and then allowed to run at large again.

Down Trend in Sight

A few days ago the bureau of agricultural economics at Washington issued a statement saying that prices in the United States are certain to go down very decisively by the end of the coming summer. The predicted subsidence, they intimated, would affect the whole range of commodities from farm products to manufactured goods entering into the cost of living.

The New York stock exchange went into decline a day or so later, indicating that holders of industrial and transportation securities thought—or suspected—the officials were right in their forecast.

The U.S. department of commerce has issued another statement, confirming this prediction. Businessmen are warned that competition for the consumer's dollar is increasing and will increase. They are therefore advised to review their price policies now, or they may incur "sudden and drastic" changes later on.

In plain language, these official warnings mean that the price-boom in the United States is over, or so nearly over that now is the time to start making readjustments; that the consumer, who has been at the mercy of uncontrolled prices in a time of commodity scarcity, is coming into his own.

Prices in Canada are still under control, hence are uniformly lower than in the United States. But the Dominion never escapes reaction from inflation or deflation in the neighbor country. Canadians can therefore prudently ask themselves what effect the prospective price recession in the United States may be expected to have upon the price-level in Canada.

Niemöller

Some of the Toronto newspapers, where the Reverend Martin Niemöller has been visiting, leave the impression that he should be denied not only Canadian pulpits but any Canadian channel of communication.

Niemöller, as everyone knows, was a lieutenant in the German Navy—and a Prussian withal—during World War I. His book entitled "From U-Boat to Pulpit" is interesting as a story of adventure written from "the other side." Perhaps a lot of unmerited sympathy has been wasted on him because he "got religion" which seemed to imply repentance for his wrongs. But his book, written after he had entered the church, reveals nothing of the kind.

Much less necessary sympathy has been wasted on him because he spent more than the years of the recent war in a concentration camp. The fact is that he was interned not for any hostility to Nazism, but simply because he criticized Hitler who, he said, did not persecute Christians as such but would tolerate no one who put the law of God above his (Hitler's). Yet far from being penitent about his submarine days Niemöller offered his services as the price of his release in World War II.

Meteorologists are now predicting that the tendency for the next ten years will be toward still colder winters. Those of us who have been grumbling had better enjoy the present winter while we can.

A domestic scene that ought to have been worth witnessing would have been the Halifax housewife who, her husband complains, felled him with the kitchen stove.

LIFES DARKEST MOMENTS

Greek Griddle Pan

BY ELMORE PHILPOTT

If the British government keeps British troops in Greece, provided that the U. S. Treasury pays for their upkeep, there will be a major storm in the British parliament.

Both the Churchill government and the Attlee government promised that British troops would be withdrawn from Greece as soon as elections were held.

It is true that Mr. Bevin's pledge to withdraw British troops was compromised later by the Greek Rightist government that was elected.

The Royalists won the election, which was boycotted by over half the people of Greece. PHILPOTT on the ground that it was impossible to hold a free, fair election under the circumstances.

But no sooner had they done so than they ignored Mr. Bevin's solemn pledge to postpone till 1948 the plebiscite on the king's return. They rushed on the plebiscite which the exiled king also handsomely "won."

We can judge the cordiality of his return by noting that crowds were kept half a mile away from the royal personage, as he landed back in the country which was supposed to want him so enthusiastically.

ANYONE who reads the British press must know that newspapers of all shades of opinion have shown ever-increasing opposition to keeping British troops in that country.

The influential London Times—which will hardly be accused of "leftist" sympathies—was strongly critical of the Churchill policy from the very beginning.

That is, this ultra-conservative journal reasoned that there could be no stable government in Greece unless it was based on some measure of support from workers and peasants. Yet that mass support was solidly in the anti-royalist camp. In my fat file on Greece I notice this early and ominous item:

"Athens, Dec. 2, 1944 (Associated Press)—A Greek cabinet crisis over a British Army proclamation disbanding guerrillas came to a climax today."

Then came long and dismal reports of the "war."

There is an item reporting a speech by Wing Commander Millington, M.P., who commanded an RAF formation, forced to drop bombs on Greeks. He said:

"I want my friends on the platform to know that one squadron which was sent from North Africa to bomb Athens went back to their mess, having carried out their orders, and got every insignia and decoration and before they went to bed burned them on the floor of their mess in protest against having done something against their conscience. Very similar things happened in the Navy."

ONE OF the young Canadian airmen who reluctantly served in that tragic operation against the fighters who had served our cause in Greece won the 1947 debate between Canadian universities. The subject was "Resolved that our troops should be withdrawn from China and Greece. He spoke with the fervor of personal experience.

As early as September 4 last, the London Daily Mirror said:

"The Greek elections are over, the King has won a decisive victory and it may happen that, if His Majesty rules with wisdom and constitutional restraint, Greece will return to some sort of political and economic stability. In any event, it is time British soldiers, whose intervention in Greece has always been distasteful, were brought home. Henceforth a Greek government must be responsible for what happens in Greece."

Mr. T. G. Thomas, a Welsh Member of Parliament returned from a three-month visit to Greece on February 20. He told the London News Chronicle:

"British troops should come out of Greece as soon as possible."

It is an open secret that the (Greek) government intends to launch an offensive against the guerrillas the end of March. It is by no means certain which way the fighting will go. I was assured by General Markos that 'We are not Communists. We are Greeks. We don't want the Russians. Nor do we want the British.'

Putting British troops on U.S. payrolls won't please the British any more than it will the Greek anti-royalists.

Whither With the Treaties

BY DOROTHY THOMPSON

With the president, General Marshall, former Secretary of State Byrnes, and apparently Senator Vandenberg urging immediate ratification of the treaties with Axis satellite states—Italy, Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria—it is difficult and may, indeed, seem presumptuous to express any doubt, however humble, whether this council is altogether wise.

None of our statesmen is defending these treaties in principle. They are quite unable to do so. They are defending them, as President Roosevelt defended the Yalta agreement, with a wry face as the best we could get. They are defending them as "realpolitik," that German concept of politics which has become universalized, as though to prove Emerson's remark that "we tend to become what we hate."

The Secretary of State urged ratification that his hand should be strengthened in Moscow, whether he has since departed. He argued that the principal provisions of the treaties were based on recommendations of the conference of Paris adopted by a two-thirds vote, and that "this is the kind of co-operation which we must encourage if we are to build enduring peace."

BUT the peace treaties of 1919 represented just this kind of co-operation, based on struggles of interest among the victors, divorced from any principles including those of Woodrow Wilson. Those treaties did not bring enduring peace. And these more completely divorced from the Atlantic Charter than the 1919 treaties were worse than the former treaties were—much worse.

Former Secretary Byrnes went into the matter farther, describing the situation in Venezia Giulia. What he said was more ominous than encouraging.

"We were compelled to choose between internationalizing Trieste or having to agreement at all... nationalities of Yugoslavia were moving into the city... It is probable that there would have been rioting. Then Yugoslavia would declare it necessary to quell the rioting on its border and would send troops to Trieste." Therefore, Yugoslavia was threatening a repetition of the Hitler tactics in the Sudetenland—exactly.

"It is my opinion Yugoslavia will hesitate to take such action as to the internationalization of Trieste is not to protect the Yugoslav against the Italians but the Italians against the Yugoslav. And if there is a 'difference' between attacking a disarmed ex-enemy state and any other form of state, what is that difference? Can the one be committed with impunity? If so, disarmament is an invitation to conquest."

THE TACTIC of World War III, into which we are already sinking, is not to send armies across the frontiers of another country in an obvious act of aggression. Instead, it is to give political and armed support to factions within a country after it has been weakened to the point where no government can command authority—weakened by measures conducive to economic breakdown, misery, despair and consequent anarchy.

The San Francisco charter provides no means of dealing with this kind of aggression, though the recent war started that way. It has not the means because it has failed to establish any law of nations governing their permissible dealings with each other. The danger to Italy is not a direct Yugoslav assault on Trieste, but Yugoslav support to Comrade Togliatti and his party—success for such support heightened by Italian chaos. The treaty will not lift that chaos.

And what Mr. Byrnes said was an admission of being forced to circumvent a threat of aggression.

It is a bad way to start an enduring peace.

WERE the times other than they are; were justice and principle the lodestars; were there such a thing; even, as common sense—a common definition of sense—no treaties would be ratified until all could be considered together. The treaties with the Axis satellites will be relatively good or bad only in the light of the German and Austrian treaties. Until one sees the whole picture, it is impossible to exercise sound judgment.

The treaty-making power is in the United States Senate. Actually, the treaties so far made are the result of a series of previous agreements made in short conferences, under the pressure of military considerations, without previous consideration by any deliberate or representative body of the American people.

In dealing with a dictatorship, we have adopted the procedures of dictatorship. And some time or other we have got to call a halt to this procedure—as far as we ourselves, at least, are concerned—or lose all democratic control over foreign policy.

Delinquent Parents

New York News

Not all of the families affected by the war took to neglecting their children, by any means, but a considerable percentage by their did. The result was the wave of juvenile delinquency which built up during the war, and which has not ebbed as yet to any great degree. The fighting stopped quite a while ago. Jobs are not going begging now in such large numbers as they once were. It does seem as if the time had arrived for more families to take to looking after the welfare and morals of their offspring—and it looks as if the police and courts around the country could spur such a reform by holding the parents responsible for the sins of the children in all cases where the evidence warrants such a course.

The Cherokees are considered the most civilized of all North American Indians.

What We Vote For

By HARPER PROWSE, MLA

It is good in a democracy for any government to be faced with a strong opposition. The opposition acts both as a spur, keeping them awake to the needs and desires of the public, and as a check, warning them of dangers and undesirable paths. The public will naturally be interested in both what government spokesmen say and what their critics say. Only in this way can they properly judge the worth of the government's actions.

In weighing the value of criticism the public should, however, be aware of what motives prompt the criticism. They should remember that it is easy for the opposition, who have no responsibility for putting into effect the suggestions they make, to advocate anything they please. They should remember too that political parties are composed of human beings—human beings who possess all the ambitions and frailties which other people possess. And they should particularly remember that opposition parties, when they criticize, are doing it in the hope that they will convince the public that they are more deserving of support at the next election than government candidates.

THERE IS a tendency then, under these circumstances, for opposition spokesmen to play for the vote. It is easy for them to convince the farmer that he should be getting more for his produce, the laborer more for his work, the manufacturer more for his produce, and the taxpayer more services for less taxes.

In doing this they serve a useful purpose for they cause the government to seek for ways whereby they can do all these things. But when the opposition lacks a sense of responsibility it is easy for them to convince everybody they should receive things which a moment's careful thought would show they couldn't possibly have.

In their zeal for the cause they represent opposition spokesmen often present half-truths, misleading lies in order to make their points. Government supporters are just as prone to do the same thing. The voter, then, should remember these factors and carefully examine every statement which is made to him in order to make sure he is getting all the facts. The best way is to listen with careful attention to both sides.

THEN, TOO, some opposition parties in this country are convinced that our economic system is all wrong. Some advocate gradual change, others immediate change, while still others believe that by continued amendment our present system can serve us at least as well, if not better, than any other system. Suggestions offered by those who believe the system should be changed should be carefully examined. It should be kept in mind that a good doctor doesn't prescribe a serious operation until he is convinced that all other methods of cure are bound to fail. When he is satisfied that operating is the only course he doesn't hesitate to operate.

If the ordinary voter would be more careful to examine statements made to him to see if they are sound, not merely if they are pleasing, it would be impossible to deceive them. If they did this politicians would have to give up deception as a political weapon. People make politicians what they are.

Ottawa Week End

BY J. H. GRAY

Ottawa: The deep thinking strategists of the Conservative party bumped last week into tradition of Ontario and Quebec members taking an "Ottawa Weekend." They head for home on Friday and get back to the job on Monday. When the weather warms up the exodus will begin on Thursday and stragglers will not get back till Tuesday.

This has been going on for years. But when parliament met this year Mr. Bracken announced by implication that his party would have nothing to do with pairing with the opposition.

WITH THE GOVERNMENT'S rather narrow majority they decided to unco-operate. By forcing divisions in the house they might embarrass both the government and the C. C. F. If the government were defeated once or twice on points of order it would lower the prestige of the government. On the other hand, if the government won these divisions with C. C. F. support that would be worthwhile for the Conservative party.

The plan went into effect, first on Feb. 10. The speaker ruled a Conservative motion out of order. The ruling was challenged and the speaker was sustained by 108 to 41. On that occasion the C. C. F. members divided and the Social Crediters supported the government.

Things went along without incident until last Friday. A ruling of the chairman was challenged. The conservative timing was faulty. More than a score of party members had taken the three o'clock train for Toronto. However, the 4:10 train to Montreal had not yet left. The Liberal whips got their commuters back from the station, or some of them at least. At that, however, the government was only able to muster 86 votes. But as the combined opposition totalled only 76, the chairman was sustained.

NOT ONLY were 28 Conservatives absent but two of them had broken Mr. Bracken's order against pairing. Some 30 odd Liberals were also absent but of course the proportion away was much lower. In any event, Mr. Bracken and his deep thinkers were annoyed. Judged from one item, their family journal, the Toronto Globe and Mail was so provoked that it used phrases that it has hitherto reserved exclusively for Mr. King and the Liberal party.

The Bulletin's Readers Say:

ARE TAXES A "RACKET?"

Editor The Bulletin: I think it was a Scotsman who is supposed to have remarked that the only two sure things in this world are death and taxes. He might well have added that under the present financial policy we shall surely be taxed to death.

A fairly large number of people seem to think that the constant demand for a higher standard of living justifies the rising tide of taxation, and therefore the only way to get rid of this incubus is to return to the primitive living conditions of our forefathers. Such a line of reasoning is on par with those who claim that in order for a country to be prosperous it must export more goods than it imports.

Why is it that our sense of security, leisure, and happiness have not increased in proportion to productive capacity? The answer is—the taxation racket. There is no logical reason why the income of private individuals should be raided by income tax officials to pay for public utilities.

The people of the nation have allowed a special section, the bankers, to be the custodians of their financial resources. They have gone further than this and have empowered these same custodians with the privilege, which is also a monopoly, of being the only ones who have the power to put fresh creations of purchasing power into circulation. It must be apparent to every student of the subject that as the national wealth increases should be reflected by the amount of purchasing power in the hands of its citizens; that if the citizens are going to have the right to share in the increased wealth which has accrued within the nation by reason of combined efforts of its citizens. Therefore, every increase in national wealth should show a similar improvement in the private affairs of every citizen.

Taxation as at present practiced is simply a racket to prevent large masses of the people from ever enjoying these improvements which have been brought about partly by science and invention and partly by the association of effort put into practice by an organized society.

Taxation is like a termite eating into the very fabric of our economic construction, and its cumulative action will one day result in the edifice being so weakened that it might be unable to sustain its own weight. Thus taxation will eventually kill incentive and enterprise, discourage plentiful production and result in an all-over lowering of the standard of living, together with complete regimentation of the people.

RESTAURANT MANNERS

Editor, Bulletin—If we are going to make a success of boosting the tourist trade something will surely have to be done about the impoliteness of the small town waitresses. Not all are impolite, but 50% of them are, especially to strangers and middle aged people.

It is really the managers' fault as they should demand courtesy from the employees. My husband and I do quite a bit of motoring in the summer time and eating in small town restaurants is anything but pleasing. At first you wonder if you are going to be waited on at all, and when a girl does take time off to see what you want she looks at you with disdain and is very noisy when putting dishes on the table. After she has served you she goes into a huddle with the other waiters who point you away and discuss you. Instead of feeling happy and relaxed after a good meal, it makes you feel choked and glad to escape the place. What impression are the American tourists going to get of us Canadians after going into one of these places to dine?

Croydon Airport Falls Into Disuse

By Basil Dean
 LONDON.—Croydon airport, once among the world's most renowned air terminals, today is in danger of becoming a forgotten field.

Britain's ministry of health, which controls new housing developments, is rumored to be considering the idea of turning Croydon into a big new housing estate. The mention has aroused a howl of protest from a number of charter-airline operators who still make use of Croydon.

But the fact remains Croydon is no longer a first-class airport. In Canada, it would be regarded as suitable for no more than week-end amateur flying. For Croydon has no runway.

Just Grass Field
 Officials using the field recently have complained that taking off or landing there, on grass, practically shakes the passengers, to say nothing of the aircraft, to pieces.

This is not all. Croydon cannot be used by four-engined aircraft because all the main approaches are now cluttered up with buildings. In 1921, when it was first opened, Croydon was selected as London's main air terminus because it had a good fog-free record and because it was situated in virtually open country.

But faulty zoning regulations permitted "ribbon building" along all the highways near the field, until now it is in the centre of a concentrated built-up area, with homes and factories clustered all around.

Not Used By Airlines
 Nothing bigger than a Douglas DC-3 can use it, and none of the regular airlines serving London call at Croydon any more. In the old days, Imperial Airways landed at Croydon from Paris, and the gleaming Douglas airliners of K.L.M. flew in from their long run out of the Netherlands East Indies.

Today, only a handful of charter companies, flying special trips for individual customers, are to be found at Croydon. Trans-Atlantic traffic uses the huge and far-from-completed London airport at Heath Row. European services touch down at Gatwick, until recently an R.A.F. fighter base, in northwest London. Croydon no longer appears on the world's air maps.

Nothing can be done to clear Croydon's approaches. Building has been going on all around it far too long. But the field still has its devotees, especially among the old hands who have been flying there for 20 years or more. It's plenty good enough, they say, for smaller passenger machines; and it's handy to central London. But though their affection for the old place is undiminished, it doesn't seem likely Croydon ever will regain the eminence it once enjoyed.

Suffragette Leader, Carrie Catt Dies
 NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, 88, who guided the franchise fight after forcing ratification of the suffrage amendment in 1920, allowing American women to vote, had been suffering from a heart ailment.

Only Saturday she was engaged in preparing a collection of photographs of the women's rights movement, which she planned to give to the Susan B. Anthony Memorial at Rochester, N.Y.

Ridicule of a girl by boy students enlisted Mrs. Catt in the cause of women's rights at the age of six. While attending Iowa State college at Ames she scored her first victory by obtaining physical education for women students.

Carrie married Leo Chapman, editor of the Mason City Republican in 1884. He died two years later. After a year's newspaper work at the west coast, she returned to Iowa as organizer for the Iowa Woman Suffrage association.

From 1900 to 1904 she was president of the National American Woman Suffrage association, succeeding Susan B. Anthony. She became president again in 1915 and continued in that post until the end of the campaign to obtain the vote for women in 1920. Victory was hers only after she had stumbled in every state.

She also was president of the International Woman Suffrage association, a member of the woman's committee of the Council of National Defense during the First Great War, and founder of the National Committee on Cause and Cure of War. In 1899 she married George William Catt, a civil engineer, in Seattle. He died in 1905.

Boy, 11, Spends 3 Years in Army
 NEWHAVEN, Sussex, England, (AP)—An 11-year-old boy who gave his name as Richard Lawrence, dressed in a beribboned uniform, told detectives Monday he "joined" a United States army unit as a mascot at the age of eight and spent the last three years travelling in Europe.

Brought here from Paris, Richard was being cared for at a public home while police sought his mother. He said his father was dead.

Smoking a cigarette, Richard said he ran away from school three years ago and adopted by an army unit and soon after D-Day was smuggled in a duffel bag aboard a plane bound for France.

Richards said he went with "my unit" through the battle zone and on to Germany during the occupation. When the unit returned to the United States, he wandered about Germany and France until picked up in Paris by military police.

80 Men Tackle Huge Snowdrift
 REGINA, (CP)—Eighty men with shovels and a pusher plow have started to attack the "daddy of snowdrifts," 30 feet high and more than half a mile long, which has blocked the 15-mile Weyburn-Tal-madge, Sask., line for more than a month.

C.N.R. officials said Monday it would take several days before they could free four engines, two snow-plows and a work train, buried in the drift since blizzards blocked them 60 miles southeast of Regina, early in February.

Flyers Knocked Out Of Senior Playoffs

Edmonton Club Beaten by 6-3 At Lethbridge

By HAL DEAN
Edmonton Bulletin Sports Editor

LETHBRIDGE, March 11.—Lethbridge Maple Leafs earned a berth in the final round of the Western Canada Hockey League playoffs with a clean-cut 6-3 victory over Edmonton Flyers before a crowd of about 3,000 people here Monday night.

Sweeney Schreiner's club which finished third in the regular league schedule, eliminated the runner-up Flyers in four games of the best of five semi-final series and will now meet Calgary Stampede for the championship and the right to proceed in the Allan cup playoffs.

LEAFS WERE ENTITLED to their win last night and had a substantial margin on the play except during the early part of the second period and the latter portion of the third when Flyers went all-out. Coach Mullen throwing in four forwards in a desperate attempt for goals.

Only super goal-keeping by Johnny Sofiak kept the home team from an early lead. Johnny stopped three shots in just over a minute and he made nine saves in the first 10 minutes. There was no scoring in that period, but Leafs easily could have been up three or four. Lethbridge outshot Flyers in every period, 13-7 in the first, 10-8 in the second and 9-7 in the third.

Leafs started the Latoski-Menzies-Hall line—and immediately put on the pressure. Watt had the first Flyer shot at three minutes and Thomas got in a backhander, but Lethbridge swept back into Edmonton territory with another determined attack.

SOFIK MADE A sensational save when Harrison got through right on top of him and followed with another almost as good when he blocked Latoski at point-blank range.

Flyers had only one really good chance to score in the first 10 minutes of the game. Kreller just failing to click. Later Brennan stopped a hot one from Pringle and Maher picked up the rebound but missed the open net.

Van Daele was penalized on the same attack for deliberately dropping on the puck and keeping it out of play, but Flyers couldn't take advantage of the extra man.

BRENNAN BARELY got his toe on a drive from Stanley just as the second period opened, but Leafs took the lead at 2:30, Fisher getting a pass out from the right corner to Harrison who was camped right on the door-step. Love got an assist.

Flyers gave their best display of the night just after this goal and it looked as if they really had found the correct recipe at last.

They were still outplaying Leafs when Gray was chased for slashing at 5 minutes, but they never got a single shot on the Lethbridge net while the opposition was short-handed.

Flyers were short a man when Latoski combined with Hall to make the count 2-0. Cy Thomas having been penalized for tripping Gray.

KRELLER ORGANIZED the play which produced the first Edmonton goal. The Flyer captain carried the puck out from behind his own blue line and relayed it to Watt at centre. Watt did a sweet job, finally tricking the defence by feinting a pass to Solinger and firing a low hot one between Brennan's pads.

Leafs quickly went up two again when Hall stole the puck from Watt and his high shot had Sof-

Kimberley Cops Lead In BC Senior Series

KIMBERLEY, B.C., March 11.—(CP)—Kimberley Dyna-miters walloped Nelson Maple Leafs 7-3 in the opening game of a best-of-five series for the British Columbia Senior Amateur Hockey championship before a sell-out crowd here last night.

New Safety Hockey Net Is Invented

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., March 11.—(CP)—Bert Lindsay, well-known figure in Canadian sport circles since he played hockey in the early days of the National Hockey League, and his son, Ted, of the Detroit Red Wings, have invented what they hope will become the hockey net of the future.

The new net incorporates a safety device which Bert thinks should prevent the numerous injuries sustained each year by players crashing into the goal posts. The posts are on a breakable joint which allows them to bend backwards through an arc of 32 inches. The topbar works on a universal joint which keeps the posts in an upright position normally.

Bert says the safety net has been used with success in local games.

Basketball School

Arnold Henderson's basketball school will be resumed today at Westglan High School, commencing at 8 o'clock.

Leafs beaten all the way. Latoski was given an assist.

A few seconds later at 18:36, the margin was cut to 3-2, Billy Maher being credited with a goal which went off Harrison's stick following a gaudy attack on the Leaf net.

EDMONTON'S CHANCES to secure an equalizer in the final period weren't helped when Watt was banished for interference and shortly after Flyers were at full strength. Leafs went ahead 4-2 on a lovely two-way effort by Fisher and Love. The latter put his team mate in the clear with a perfect pass.

Hall's second goal of the night was a low backhander through several legs and that left Flyers trailing three goals with less than 10 minutes to play. Leafs at this stage in the period had outshot the Flyers 8 to 3.

Solinger, who was on the ice practically all the last session was flying and twice got through around the 14 minute mark.

STANLEY WAS SENT out in place of a second defenceman with Kreller, Merluk and Smitten on the line.

Solinger set up the play for the Flyers' final goal at 17:53, carrying the puck over and sliding it ahead to Kreller, who went in close before making his play.

Goalie Sofiak was lifted with about a minute remaining and Flyers battled hard, but just couldn't score although they kept the puck inside the Leaf area most of the remaining time. Leafs' sixth goal by Van Daele was cleared down by the ice into the empty net well behind his own blue line.

VERNON, B. C., March 11 (CP)—Nanaimo Clippers edged out an 11-9 victory over Trail All Stars in a wide open, free scoring hockey game here last night. The win by the Vancouver Island sextet tied the best-of-five series for the British Columbia intermediate hockey championship at one game each.

Bud Gourlie paced the Islanders with a trio of well earned goals while Dick Sisson and Jack Richardson nabbed two each. Glen Miller, Ed Varga, Den Huddleston and Ernie Dougherty tallied the remainder.

For the All Stars, Joe Laface converted the hard trick with Sam Sammartino close behind with a couple. Chuck Casey, Bob Kendall, Bert Milne and Julie Biliski completed the scoring for Trail.

What City Council Did

Received as information a communication from the deputy minister of municipal affairs stating that conditional upon the completion of the Dominion-provincial agreement, the social service tax will not be requested for this year. This will mean a saving of $110,000 to Edmonton taxpayers.

Referred to the by-laws committee a resolution from Messrs. Cory and Crough, garage proprietors, seeking relief from the provisions of the Industrial Standards Act, as it applies to services performed by automotive mechanics and other employees. It is stated that the restrictive measures of the act is militating against service to tourist traffic. The city clerk was instructed to inform all interested parties of the reference to the by-laws committee.

Confirmed the 1947 assessment roll, and authorized the city assessor to publish such notices as are required by the city charter.

Authorized the city commissioners to give a grant of utilities to the Edmonton Home for Ex-Servicemen's Children until the 1947 estimates on grants have been considered, and referred to the finance committee a request from the organization for permission to hold a tag day.

Engineer Officer Takes Post Here

Lt.-Col. J. S. Beeman, Vancouver and Ottawa, has arrived in Edmonton to take up duties as commanding engineer officer at headquarters, Western Command, Canadian Army. It was announced Monday.

Immediately prior to his appointment here, he was director of military accommodation at Ottawa. Before the war he was a permanent force soldier, and during the war served at headquarters, Second Canadian Infantry Division; on the staff of headquarters, Eighth Army, and then was in command of an engineer unit in Italy and then Northwest-Europe.

He attended a military staff college in England in 1941, and then was staff engineer officer with Military district No. 13 at Calgary, until the spring of 1946 when he went to Ottawa to take the post in charge of military accommodation there.

A Look at Man's Evolution

"Missing Link" Powerful Says Noted Anthropologist

By Paul F. Ellis

NEW YORK, March 11 (BUP)—The "Missing Link" in the evolution of man was a powerful animal—so strong that he could whip lions, tigers and other beasts of the prehistoric jungle, Dr. Gustave Ralph von Koenigswald, the recognized Dutch anthropologist said recently.

The "Link"—that mysterious as yet unidentified form of life between man's original ancestry and modern man—walked erect, Dr. von Koenigswald believes, and probably had the characteristics of an ape, but one who looked like man.

He lived on this earth about 10,000,000 years ago, Dr. von Koenigswald speculated.

THE DUTCH EXPLORER, now with the American Museum of Natural History, made these observations in commenting on reports from Nairobi, Kenya Colony, that an Oxford professor had joined the school of thought that certain fossils found in South Africa represent a link in man's evolution.

The professor, W. Le Gros Clark, said that a study of the specimens found at Sterkfontein and Kromdraai show they "are very closely related to man and are survivors of the group that gave origin to man."

The same opinion has been held by Prof. Raymond Dart and Dr. Robert Broom, also experts in anthropology. The fossils, discovered in 1938, indicated they were from a creature who definitely was human and not ape-like, Clark said.

DR. VON KOENIGSWALD, who has spent many years in searching for clues to ancient man, described the South African specimens as "only fragments."

He said from his information, he believed the fossils in question represent a creature who would be only a "youngster" in the matter of age—say about 500,000 years old, similar to the age of the Peking man.

"You've got to go further back than that to find evidence of the missing link," Dr. von Koenigswald said.

He estimated that about 10,000,000 years would be about right.

Dr. von Koenigswald said the South African specimens "were very interesting forms of a mixture of human and anthropoid characteristics" but that "you must say the accent is on the side of the ape."

THAT ELIMINATES the possibility of their being close to the missing link," he said.

Man—in original form—lived in the trees, Dr. Koenigswald believes, and was a powerful creature. When the forests vanished, the creature moved to the ground and then began to specialize in the various avenues of intelligence—such as the making of implements.

It was this creature that first lived on the ground and learned to walk upright that is the "missing link," Dr. von Koenigswald believes.

Airport Customers Confused by Twins

SEATTLE (BUP)—Many a passenger and mechanic at Boeing Field has taken a look, rubbed his eyes and muttered fears he was developing double vision.

Doris Cadley, an airlines stewardess, and her twin sister, Dorothy Cadley Titus, a flight instructor, are identical twins.

"People think we are snobbish or something," Miss Cadley explained. "Dorothy's friends come up to me and begin talking, and they go away thinking Dorothy has gone highball, unless I get a chance to explain."

Urge Government Grant Tax Relief

City council Monday night called on the provincial government to implement as soon as possible a resolution passed unanimously in the Legislature requesting the government to give consideration to relieving the municipal taxpayer of the burden of any part of the cost of old age pensions, or mothers' allowances.

THE RESOLUTION also called for the assumption by a greater portion of the cost of indigent relief, hospitalization and medical care, and the cost of maintaining mental defective children in training schools.

The matter came before city council in a communication from A. J. E. Liesemer, CCF member of the Legislature for Calgary, but aldermen pointed out that repeated requests had been made to the government through the Union of Alberta Municipalities seeking the assumption by the province of a greater part of the financial burden of social services.

Cheque Forger Pleads Guilty

Leo Parras, Edmonton, pleaded guilty in supreme court Monday to three charges of forging cheques, and was remanded by Mr. Justice Boyd McBride until May 12 next for sentence.

A GUILTY PLEA was entered also by George Paquette, Edmonton, on a charge of stealing a pocketbook and $200 from the person of Elmer Stratte. He was remanded in custody until after the trial of Jennie Thompson, who is alleged by the crown to have participated in the theft with Paquette.

There were no elections for trial by jury at the opening of the assizes, and juriesmen summoned to attend at the second week of the sittings will be notified by the sheriff in the near future that their attendance will not be required.

Foresee Bans On Road Traffic

The Highway Traffic Board anticipates that within a period of not more than two weeks, it will be necessary to place the usual bans on bus and truck traffic over the roads of this province. There has been a heavy snowfall this winter and while there is at the present time no indication of spring, it is almost certain that when it does come, it will come with a rush and it will be necessary to immediately take steps to protect the roads of the province. Bans will be imposed on all truck, trailer, tractor and bus traffic, but provisions will be made for half loading of trucks carrying milk, cream, bread, eggs and His Majesty's mail. Half loading will also be allowed for light delivery trucks up to one ton rated carrying capacity. Passenger cars will be exempt, and farmers with two-wheeled trailers will be allowed to use the same.

See No Indication Upping Gas Prices

Only if the federal government lifts its ceiling on gasoline will there be any increase in the price of gasoline in Alberta, observers at the legislative buildings said Monday.

There is no indication that the Dominion government intends to lift that ceiling, Premier Ernest Manning indicated.

The Premier pointed out that the province had consistently urged on the senior government the wisdom of maintaining the ceiling.

Another official predicted that

"the resultant increase would not be more than two cents a gallon on non-agricultural gas and there should be no increase on agricultural fuel."

He based his assumption on the fact that oil companies were suggesting a three cent increase if the price ceiling were lifted, but he admitted that the whole picture was clouded as to future prices with the Dominion dropping its three cent tax, and the province picking up two cents of it.

Gideon Official Here On Business

Arthur J. Burnham, Toronto, Dominion field secretary for the Gideons Association, is in Edmonton in connection with the association's new work in distributing scriptural testimonials throughout the public schools.

Interviewed at the Macdonald hotel, Tuesday, he explained that the association's initial objective was distribution of 50,000 testimonials to school students in Grade 6. This would be repeated in the following two years thus enabling incoming students to that grade to receive the testimonials.

Differing from Bibles distributed to the schools by the Gideons, the testimonials become the property of the students.

Funds were still needed in the work of the association, he said. While here he will confer with Hon. R. E. Ansley, minister of education, and R. S. Sheppard, superintendent of the Edmonton School Board.

Hit by Truck Girl Injured

A 9-year-old girl, Marjorie McDougall, 9218 110A avenue, suffered injuries about 4:15 p.m. Monday after being struck by a truck on 111 avenue between 93 and 94 streets. She was removed to the Royal Alexandra hospital by a passing motorist. Her condition is reported as good.

Sid. Corrigan, 11321 90 street, driver of the truck, told police he was travelling west on 111 avenue and when between 93 and 94 streets he observed three small girls run into the street from in front of a car on the north side of the avenue. He said he applied his brakes but due to the icy condition of the road was unable to bring his truck to a halt.

He said the girl ran into the rear dual wheel of his vehicle. Joseph McNeill, 10186 119 street, a pedestrian, said he saw the girl being pushed along for a short distance in front of the wheels.

Robert Dingwall Is Leaving Board

Resignation of Robert Dingwall, Edmonton, from the provincial apprenticeship board was announced Tuesday by Clayton Adams, chairman of the board. Mr. Adams said Mr. Dingwall, manager of the Standard Iron Works here, will be replaced by C. A. Hyndman, a member of the Alberta Board of Industrial Relations.

The five-man board, Mr. Adams said, will now consist of himself as chairman, A. Mogeridge, J. A. Pugh, J. H. Ross, provincial director for Canadian Vocational Training and Mr. Hyndman.

A member since the board was set up two years ago, Mr. Dingwall had remained with the organization until today, the apprenticeship situation in the province was in "quite good" condition, Mr. Adams concluded.

City Family Welfare Bureau Starts New Year of Service

Quietly, unostentatiously, but effectively, the work of family social service is becoming more and more an integral part of the community life of human society with its complex problems of race, color, creed, status and other divisive factors, members of the Edmonton Family Welfare Bureau were told Monday evening by the Rev. Fr. J. A. Macdonald, member of the Catholic Service Welfare Council of Ottawa, at the annual meeting of the bureau held in the Museum of Arts.

FATHER MACDONALD traced the rise of social service work as it is known today in comparison to its application in the days before its recognition as an organized need of society.

Where assistance came in the early days from neighbors and workers in church associations, modern development had brought about pensions, unemployment insurance and other advanced social service features which left today's social service worker free to concentrate attention on "case" needs of individual family problems.

In paying high tribute to the work accomplished in Edmonton by the bureau, Father Macdonald emphasized that the family was the basic unit of society and also the bulwark of Christianity.

Among many social organizations to which he paid tribute was the Council of Social Agencies, which acted as a federation of the efforts made by many affiliates.

Advance of social service work during the war years caused a shortage of qualified welfare workers, he said, adding that schools had not been able to supply the increasing demand for trained workers.

"IT WILL BE too bad if the day ever arrives and I hope it never will—if we lose the proper mode of work in social service," he said.

There was a need for leadership in community betterment and the remedying of situations which demanded service action, he said. He said he felt that such agencies as the council could become the avenue of progress in this direction.

He pointed to wars and mankind's struggle for peace, avowing that in the end the much sought brotherhood of man rested in only one thing—the Divine Mandate.

The Rev. J. MacBeath, Miller, minister of First Presbyterian Church and board member of the bureau, extended appreciation of the annual meeting to the visiting priest for his address.

Preceding election of officers, reports of the treasurer, George Cooper, and the executive director, Miss M. B. Dick, were read and adopted.

New president of the organization is J. Turner, who succeeds S. H. McCuaig, K.C., and as vice-president, F. W. Thyne, succeeding Dr. G. M. Little. Honorary secretary and honorary treasurer respectively, are Mrs. Cora Casselman and H. E. Tanner, succeeding H. M. McKee and the Rev. Father F. R. Woodhouse. Fourteen other members of the board continue for the ensuing year.

Assembly Members Guests At Dinner Tendered by AMA

Main highways in Alberta will be improved this year to the extent of 1,000 miles graded and 1,000 miles gravelled, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works said Tuesday evening, at a complimentary dinner tendered members of the Legislature by the Alberta Motor Association.

MR. FALLOW was speaking in reply to a toast to the province proposed by L. R. Lipsett, K.C., Calgary, chairman of the Calgary branch, AMA, and replied to by himself and Premier Ernest Manning. Dr. G. J. Hope, AMA provincial president, was chairman. One hundred and fifty guests.

MLAs, members of municipal councils, mayors and members of local boards of trade present at the dinner heard Mr. Fallow give details of the 1947 road program of the provincial government.

Roads in every direction of Alberta's three principal cities Lethbridge, Calgary and Edmonton.

Mining Executive Says:

North Development Will Feature Metals

The future development of the North West Territories will see a greater emphasis on the production of base metals such as copper, lead, zinc and tantalum, as well as gold, according to the opinion of A. O. Ames, Yellowknife, managing director of Beaulieu Mines.

MR. AMES, interviewed Tuesday at the Macdonald hotel in Edmonton selecting additional personnel in preparation for the setting up of his company's gold processing mill on the Beaulieu property.

He conferred here with L. E. Drummond, secretary-manager of the Alberta and North West Chamber of Mines and Resources.

Mr. Ames reported that work on the Beaulieu property 45 miles east of Yellowknife would take the form of intensive development, but that production was not expected to get fully underway until August, following the assembly of the mill. All component parts of which were now on hand.

AT PRESENT there are about 55 men employed in the gold area by his firm, and it was hoped he could bring this number up to the strength of 77 with the addition of skilled workers.

Completion of the Grimsby-Hay River highway is looked forward to as a factor which will stimulate activity throughout the gold producing area.

Air freighting from Hay River on a year-round basis will be undertaken with the completion of the highway and the construction of landing strips on mine properties. In this connection, he said, the federal government is shouldering part of the cost of building the strips as an encouragement to development.

HE PREDICTED a great future for Yellowknife and said the new townsite was growing rapidly. "Plane loads of prospectors and others are arriving daily," he said. From the present 3,700 population he said he expects to see this boosted to 5,000 before the year was out.

Livestock Official Says:

Increased Hog Production Would Help West Farmers

More hogs for a waiting and lucrative market in an intensified all-out production effort by farmers of Alberta and the Western provinces will result in greater permanent advantage to the agricultural economy of Alberta and the west, according to H. W. Allen, director of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and president of the Alberta Livestock Co-operative Limited.

TOGETHER WITH an increase in hog raising there should be a sharply upped program of increased coarse grain acreage to carry out feed supplies and also to fill a profitable demand for feed grain in eastern Canada and British Columbia.

In my opinion Alberta's hog production should be at least three times what it was in the past year and we should be able to get along with that to produce a large enough volume of coarse grain to supply the needs of other parts of Canada," stated Mr. Allen.

"WHILE EASTERN Canada would perhaps rather see the west guarantee them an abundant supply of feed, western Canada would be very stupid indeed if they neglected the much more lucrative market for finished livestock," continued Mr. Allen.

He said hog production in Alberta was on a "much sounder" basis than it ever could be in Ontario due to the inability of the latter province to raise its own feed.

ONTARIO FARMERS attach great importance to big scale hog production and the securing of export markets, he emphasized.

Continued silence on the part of the federal department of agriculture on coarse grain prices for the next year was one factor having a deterring effect on farmers who were ready to go into hog production, he observed.

Another disquieting feature affecting western agriculture was the present threat of increased freight rates on all farm products except grain for export, said Mr. Allen, in calling upon authorities for removal of "uncertainties, and handicaps" which might in any way interfere with the farm production program.

India's airline carried 104,000 passengers during 1946 against 22,000 passengers in 1945.

At Kiwanis Luncheon

Oil Strike at Leduc Is Said "Encouraging"

The story of the Leduc oil strike is an encouraging one, and one that is hoped will result in the establishment of a productive, and rich oil centre around Edmonton, Frank Roberts, seismograph expert of Imperial Oil Company, Ltd., said at a luncheon of the Kiwanis Club Monday.

"THE END OF the story cannot be told for a long time yet," he said. "Before we will know the actual extent or output of the Leduc area, hundreds of experimental diggings will have to be made. But the company is very enthusiastic about Leduc No. 1, and has high hopes for other big-producing wells in the district."

The company has spent $9,000,000 in Saskatchewan and Alberta on exploration, and the discovery of oil at Leduc is its first dividend on the money spent, he said.

IT IS HOPED that first indications of the area—that it is a shallow deposit, and that it has sufficient subterranean water and gas power to drive it easily to the top, will be justified in other wells dug, he said.

Eighty-one million barrels of oil have been produced at Turner Valley, since oil was discovered there in 1919. The area is still productive, but some wells are so costly to extract the oil from, that they do not pay for themselves.

"CANADA MUST import today, 88 per cent of the needed oil, and so oil companies are constantly exploring new areas for productive wells," he said.

"It is to be hoped that Leduc will prove a lucky find and that the oil can be drilled cheaply and for a long time," he said.

He explained the formation of oil deposits and the various methods, including the seismograph, used in the drilling of oil.

He was introduced by Lew White, Roy W. Henry, president, was chairman.

TO SIT HERE: Mr. Justice Gerald O'Connor, former Edmonton barrister, who will preside at sittings of the Exchequer Court of Canada which opens at the court house here in March. This is his first official visit to Edmonton since his appointment to the court.

Before The Magistrate

On a charge of cruelty to animals, Desire Plaquin, Thierin, drew a fine of $75 and costs when he appeared before Magistrate A. I. Miller, K.C. in city police court Tuesday morning.

The provincial humane officer, H. J. Jones, told court that on Jan. 15 the accused shipped 117 hogs, two calves, one lamb and one cow to Edmonton. On arrival in the city Mr. Jones said two hogs were dead, one was crippled and 38 were badly frozen.

Alternative to the fine was a three-month prison term. The magistrate warned that another offense might easily prompt him to give a straight jail term.

Sudden Death

The sudden death of Mrs. Rosanna Dix, 73-year-old resident of the Sedgewick district, has been reported to RCMP here. She died Sunday night at a farm home three and a half miles south of Sedgewick. The district coroner said the cause of death was heart condition.

CITY VISITOR

H. H. Burke, Calgary, general manager of the Great West Distributing Company, arrived in Edmonton Tuesday and will discuss company matters during the day with his local officials. He is staying at the Macdonald hotel.

At Council Meeting

Approve Union Check Off Throughout Civic Service

Institution of the union shop and check-off throughout the civic service was authorized by city council Monday night on the recommendation of the city commissioners. Request for the union shop and check-off originated with Civic Union No. 30, and later was requested by the Civic Employees' Federation.

THE COMMISSIONERS told aldermen that the institution of the union shop policy was a vital part of the 1947 working conditions.

They were informed also that the provincial industrial conciliation and arbitration acts makes it mandatory on an employer to institute the check-off on request by employees.

They reported also that the mechanics of the operation have been discussed with the unions and the city comptroller, and satisfactorily arranged.

ALDERMEN were informed also that less than five per cent of the civic employees were non-union members.

The commissioners reported also that they had tentatively agreed that the union shop be recognized, and that the check-off of union dues be introduced under the following conditions: That the check-off shall not apply to any special levy made by the unions; or to any employee on leave of absence without pay, the union to be responsible for collection in these two instances.

Each employee shall have the right to determine to which union dues will go, and the check-off will not apply to any employee who is already a member of a recognized union of technical workers.

Trust Transfer Plans Approved

An act which would simplify the transfer of assets of the London and Western Trusts Company to the Canada Trust Company, was approved with minor amendments by the legislative committee on private bills Monday morning. L. D. Hyndman, K.C., of Edmonton approved before the committee in behalf of the Canada Trust Company. He was asked by chairman J. C. Landerou (SC-Lethbridge) to obtain a list of directors of the companies concerned, their place of residence and their nationality. This Mr. Hyndman undertook to do.

Limited Supplies of Cement Hold Up 1947 Paving Program

Cement supplies during 1947 will only permit a $600,000 paving program being undertaken this year, city council was informed Monday night by City Commissioner D. B. Menzies.

HE GAVE THIS information to aldermen when schedules for local improvements and a paving tender from the Crown Paving Company were being considered.

R. C. Marshall, manager of the company, said that last year there was a large surplus of cement which was utilized during the year to augment supplies. This surplus was not available this year, and the manufacturers were unable to complete planned plant extensions because of delay in receiving manufacturing units being constructed in Britain. He said that 1947 supplies would be on a day-to-day basis.

Council adopted a recommendation from the city commissioners accepting the tender of the Crown Paving Co., of $527,562.45 for paving work to be done this year.

THE CONSTRUCTION schedules include the paving of 107 avenue from 101 street to 124 street; paving of both sides of 124 street from 111 to 118 avenues; the paving of the valley road across the 103 street bridge from 97 avenue to 109 street at Saskatchewan Drive; and the paving of 116 street from 100 to 104 avenues.

Council also authorized city commissioners to proceed with plans for the erection of a two-way steel traffic bridge abutting the low level bridge. Some opposition was expressed by Aldermen S. Bowcott and H. E. Tanner to this proposal. They were of the opinion that a new bridge should be constructed which would be an adornment to the river valley.

Aldermen concurred in the recommendation of the commissioners that a grant not exceeding $5,000 be made to the Edmonton

It was disclosed Tuesday by Thomas Ferrier, superintendent of the system. The total of passengers carried in February 1946 was 2,084,962.

Then cumulative passenger total for the first two months of 1947 was 6,543,389 compared with 6,287,695 for the same period last year, an increase of 255,694.

Nursing Aide Bill in House

Machinery necessary for the training and licensing of nursing aides is outlined in a bill introduced in the Legislative Assembly Monday afternoon by Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health. The bill is designed to relieve registered nurses of some of their work and thus help relieve the shortage of trained personnel in hospitals.

A NURSING AIDE is defined as a person who is neither a registered nurse nor a nurse in training, who undertakes the care of patients for remuneration.

An advisory council of six members will attend to details of the new training. It will consist of the medical inspector of hospitals, chairman, the superintendent of the public health nursing branch, and four other members appointed by the Associated Hospitals of Alberta, the Alberta Association of Registered Nurses, the Vocational Training Advisory Council, and a representative of licensed nursing aides.

Arrangements for establishment of one or more central schools for the training of aides are made in the bill, which also provides for the appointment of teachers.

T. Eaton Company Aids Red Cross

Contributions to the Edmonton objective of $100,000 in the Canadian Red Cross Society campaign have reached $7,596. It was stated by Red Cross officials Tuesday. This amount, it was pointed out, has been collected in the first week only and does not represent collections by many canvassers who have not made returns.

HORACE T. GRIFFITH, campaign manager, is confident that the objective will be reached during the next three weeks.

Employees of the T. Eaton Co. (Western) Ltd., in Edmonton have donated $1,500 to the fund, he said, one of the biggest contributions thus far.

An announcement from Toronto Tuesday stated that the sum of $40,000 has been donated by the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. The amount will be divided among the provinces of the Dominion with a view to aiding each in attaining its objective.

This is a company contribution and of course, will be augmented by subscriptions of employees of the organizations throughout the country.

Education Grants

grant formula will be re-adjusted, Mr. Ansley said, so that many new districts, rural and urban, will receive benefits of this type of grant.

EDMONTON will receive $65,000 more this year under the new grants set-up, Mr. Ansley stated. This means an increase in grants to the city of more than 60 per cent. He thought that Calgary would receive similar boosts.

The provincial government also will be able, without further drain on provincial lands, to assist cities through Dominion assistance to vocational training. By this federal aid new assistance can be given to districts offering courses which will enable students to spend 50 per cent of their time on vocational training.

Two hundred scholarships of $200 each also were announced by the minister, who said they were to be confined to those students who wish to enter the faculty of education at the university. This is in addition to the payment of tuition fees and other fixed expenses which the department has already assumed in the case of students who in their first year undertake to spend at least three years teaching.

IN THE PAST students who took this offer have signed a promissory note for the amount thus paid for them. When they have completed three years teaching the notes are destroyed. It has not yet been necessary to proceed with collection of any of the notes, Mr. Ansley said.

The minister admitted that teachers' pensions in the province were not very satisfactory. He announced that commencing on April 1 the pension would be raised from $35 a month to $40.

He told of a meeting between the executive council and a committee of the Alberta Teachers' Association where discussion had centred on a pension scheme. At that time the teachers had admitted that their pension scheme as submitted was better than the pension scheme offered to civil servants.

If the new civil servant pension scheme is prepared in time for this session, he indicated, further consideration would be given to the teachers' requests for pension, in line with the scheme evolved for other public servants.

ALBERTA was 20 years late in starting a pension scheme for teachers, Mr. Ansley said. This was not the responsibility of the present government.

"Education is receiving fair treatment in Alberta," Mr. Ansley said as he detailed a total expenditure of more than $9,000,000 on both income and capital account for schools in the province. This was including amounts appropriated in the estimates for the department of public works for construction of schools and other buildings.

Only two provinces in Canada were able to pay the 50 per cent of education costs asked for by the Alberta Educational Council, the minister said. These were Ontario and British Columbia, and both were in a much better position to do so, from a financial as well as from other points of view.

Expenditure on other departments also contributed to education, he said. He regarded money spent on roads, for example, as a "direct contribution to the cause of education."

The minister also defended the correspondence courses which have been brought under fire continually by opposition members.

"The instruction is of a very high standard," he said. "Only qualified teachers who would not otherwise be engaged in their profession are employed."

AMA Dinner

bridge, Calgary and Edmonton will be improved, he said. Some new roads will be built, others will be graded, others black-topped and others gravelled.

The war interrupted the province's plan of road construction, but this year will see completed, or in the process of completion, roads that will put Alberta on a "stable revenue basis" and insure future improvement of other social services, education and public health," he said.

Degree of success in any provincial undertaking depends on the united action of all groups and associations within the province, Mr. Fallow said, in commending the work of the AMA in past years. He asked for united action in an effort to produce good not only for individuals and groups, but for the "whole of our people."

PREMIER MANNING in his address said that the provincial government "would spend more on roads this year than in any other year," and that the investment would prove an inestimable asset to the people of the province in the days that lie ahead.

He commended the work of the association in unifying efforts for improved roads and motoring conditions both for people within the province and as a drawing card for tourists from other parts of Canada, from the United States and Mexico.

"Our united efforts at this time, of a public nature, will work to the mutual benefit of all," he said.

His Hon. Lt.-Gov. J. C. Bowen, was guest. Seated at the head table with His Honor and Dr. Hope were Premier Manning, cabinet ministers and speakers of the evening.

Ed McGarvey led in community singing and sang several solos. Ralph Couper was accompanist.

THEME OF THE dinner, said the chairman in his opening remarks, was "to promote a greater friendship and co-operation between provincial and municipal legislators and members of the AMA."

C. H. Grant, K.C., president of the Edmonton branch, AMA, proposed a toast to the Legislature. "We are all out to serve our communities to make Alberta a better province, a better Canada and a better world," he said.

"The education of public opinion and creation of a demand for good government" is the duty of the legislator, he said. "While we may not all agree upon the methods by which good governments may be achieved," he said, "we are all agreed upon the necessity of service to the public as the first requisite of both voters and those voted into power alike."

Hon. Peter Dawson, Speaker of the Legislature, and A. V. Bourcier, MLA, replied.

TOAST TO "Alberta Municipalities" was proposed by Charles J. Beny, vice-president AMA, and replied to by J. M. Wheatley, president of Municipal Districts. Mr. Wheatley spoke of the importance of providing good market roads and good highways so that country people could get into the cities for pleasure and business, and so that tourists would be encouraged to come to Alberta.

Mayor J. A. Jardine, Lethbridge's mayor, was a guest at the dinner and pleaded for good roads for Lethbridge. "Tourists in the past have been known to turn back at Lethbridge and not go further, because they had encountered such bad roads. Because Lethbridge is the first Alberta city they get to, the roads both to and from the city should be good to encourage tourists to carry on to Calgary, Banff, Edmonton and other Alberta tourist spots," he said.

Mr. Turnbull said the change is subject to approval of the two presbyteries concerned, and the settlement committee of the London conference.

The minister stated "Knox is a fine sturdy cause and if it were wise or proper to do so I would be quite willing to remain indefinitely, but I am convinced that the limited pastorate has values for both minister and congregation."

The average term for ministers at Knox church has been five years.

At a meeting of the official board Monday night it was decided that the board will present a list of nominations to a vacancy committee. The vacancy will be filled by election of the congregation.

Agriculture Vote Not Large Enough

Though the Alberta budget is essentially an agricultural one, the 1947-1948 appropriation for the department of agriculture is not sufficiently increased, according to H. G. Hammell (SC-Didsbury), who spoke in the Legislature Monday.

MR. HAMMELL was speaking during the first day of the budget debate and was preceded by J. Percy Page (Ind-Edmonton) and Hon. R. E. Ansley, minister of education.

Not enough headway is being made in the control of weeds, he said, and complained that heavy infestations of weeds appear along road allowances.

Farmers should be encouraged to install machines for the cleaning of seed grains, he thought, either through co-operatives or through municipalities that could be aided by the government from a financial point of view.

WHILE HE COULD not say that the Alberta government was doing everything it could for the health of the people, it at least led all of Canada in this direction.

Mr. Hammell expressed shame at the size of old age pensions, though Alberta paid the second highest scale in the country. The pensions, however, were "just a mere excuse for maintaining an economic system so absurd that we must treat our old and unfortunate like beggars."

When he took a trip through Saskatchewan and Manitoba recently, he found road conditions so deplorable that he was glad that he lived in Alberta, he said.

Inconsiderate One Not Good Spouse

Dear Miss Dix: I have a boy friend with whom I have been going for five months and who wants to marry me, but I haven't decided yet whether I love him enough to do so or not. He is very lazy. When he comes to see me he lies down on the couch and wants me to sit beside and talk to him in a low, sweet voice. He is very sloppy in the way he dresses. Never looks neat and tidy. Never takes me out for dinner or to a movie. He has no job. No money.

What do you advise me to do?
LIBBIE.

Answer: Well, my earnest advice to you is to give your brains a little exercise by trying to figure out what sort of life you would be leading yourself to if you are foolish enough to marry this loafer. Apparently you have no excuse for committing such a folly, for you do not claim to be so madly infatuated with him that you have taken leave of your senses.

Sit down and analyze the situation. Begin by facing the truth, and that is that laziness is the most incurable of all diseases, and this boy, who is too lazy even to sit up when he comes to see you, has a fatal case of it. Any boy who hasn't enough pep about him to keep himself clean and tidy and who expects his Girl Friend to sit beside him and entertain him, while he reclines upon a couch is simply beyond contempt.

THE ONLY thing this lazy loafer has is nerve in asking you to marry him when he has no job and no way of supporting a wife, and no money and no family to fall back upon. He will expect you to take care of him if you marry him, while he loaf and rests. No girl would marry that kind of a man unless she herself was a candidate for the Home for the Feeble-Minded.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have been married almost two years and love my husband very much, but we have been very unhappy since the day we got married. He is much older than I and has been married twice before. I am his third wife. The trouble is that he has a daughter, by his first wife, who is almost as old as I am, and I don't like for him to see her. I don't like for him to see his daughter because I can't stand for them to be together, and my husband says he will never stop seeing her.

I think about his past all the time. I am thinking about leaving him, but have a sweet little baby of our own and we love him dearly. Do you think I should stay with my husband for the baby's sake?

UNHAPPY WIFE.

Answer: You say you love your husband. He loves you. And you have a young baby. So what's the grand idea in wrecking the whole business, breaking up your home, losing your husband, depriving your baby of a father's love and guidance, for no reason at all except that your husband refuses to do an act so childish and disloyal to his daughter that decent people would cut him dead if they knew it?

YOUR ULTIMATUM is that your husband refuse to see or speak to his middle-aged daughter, who has committed no offense against you, doesn't even want to live in the same house with you, and if he doesn't give in to your insane demands, you are going to take the baby and leave. And if this doesn't strike the high note in jealousy, I don't know what does. For apparently there is nothing in a father's recognition of his daughter to rouse the green-eyed monster in any sane wife.

Don't you think you had better think it over and realize that you are making your own troubles in making this senseless and selfish demand on your husband, before you go any further in breaking up your home and robbing your husband of his baby? Selfishness and self-centeredness like yours never bring any happiness, because nobody can ever make over the world to their liking.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am not selfish or narrow-minded and I certainly do not object to my husband talking about his first wife now and then, but I think it is going beyond the limit for him to make her the topic of a eulogy when we have company. Don't you?

BORED WIFE.

Answer: I certainly do, but there are lots of men who do it who never handed their Marias any bouquets while they were alive. Blessings seem to brighten as they fade among husbands.

THE MODERN PLANE'S INSTRUMENTS

For many years, every airplane has carried at least five instruments which pilots call the flight group. Of these the airspeed indicator is the most important. It tells the pilot when his plane is moving fast enough to leave the ground, when it is moving through the air at a speed sufficient to keep it aloft, and when it is flying slowly enough to land.

In operation the airspeed indicator is simple. In flight, air is admitted to the pitot tube, a small metal spike extending forward from the wing. When the plane moves rapidly, a great deal of air rushes into the tube.

When speed is reduced, less air enters the tube. These changes in air pressure cause a metal disc to move up and down in an airtight chamber; the disc movement affects the needle of the airspeed dial on the plane's instrument panel.

A jet engine, concealed within the fuselage behind the cockpit, powers this Lockheed Superfort, the P-38 Shooting Star.

The altimeter, which ranks next to the airspeed indicator in importance, records the pilot's altitude above sea level. It enables him to fly at a given altitude in order to avoid collision with other planes. It also enables him to fly at the altitude at which he can obtain the maximum speed from his engines. The altimeter is affected by barometric pressure, which changes as altitude increases.

In commercial planes, a terrain-clearance altimeter is also used. This registers the distance from any obstruction on the earth's surface. This instrument, the ancestor of radar, sends an electric signal toward the ground from one wing tip. When this electric wave strikes a solid surface, it bounces back and is recorded by a receiver in the opposite wing tip. A dial on the instrument panel tells the pilot when he must climb higher to avoid a mountain peak or any other obstacle.

The other instruments in the flight group are the rate-of-climb indicator, or variometer, which tells how fast this plane is climbing; the turn-and-bank indicator, which registers changes in the plane's angle or direction of flight; and a compass.

records this beam as a tiny point of light. By flying at an angle which keeps this point of light in the centre of the scanner, the pilot can bring his plane to earth at the very end of the runway.

Ice has always been the most dangerous natural hazard known to pilots. Now we have overcome this obstacle. Planes which fly at low levels encounter icing conditions only during the winter months. So de-icers, or rubber blankets, which slip over the leading edge of wing and tail, are mounted on planes every October and removed in April. Whenever ice begins to form, the pilot presses a button. Air is blown into these blankets, causing them to expand. This expansion breaks up the ice.

Another kind of anti-icing equipment is used on planes which fly at high altitudes and, therefore, must guard against ice the year around. Hot exhaust gases from the engines travel through pipes inside the wing, tail and propeller blades to keep all surfaces so warm that ice cannot form.

title last December. This victory made both McGhee and Adams Life Masters.

We were discussing today's hand, which was played in a duplicate game, and we thought it surprising that a number of West players overcalled with a heart. North and South made six spades at five or six tables because in most cases a heart was opened. For some reason players hesitate to lead an ace against a six-bid. They are greedy and want their aces to capture kings and queens.

As McGhee pointed out, a trick is a trick and the important thing is to take it at the proper time. With a heart opening, the losing diamond in dummy was discarded on declarer's good heart before a trump was led.

Why Grow Old?

A little serious effort will see most marriages through difficult times. Actress Angela Greene has made that effort in some of her screen roles for Warner Brothers.

By Josephine Lowman

It seems to me that building a good marriage and building a good log fire are similar in many ways. When you build a fire you use lots of quick catching paper and kindling, and all at one it goes up in a brilliantly burning blaze, with lots of sparkle and crackle and zest.

Your Baby and Mine

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

The discomfort of amoniacal diapers is greatest in the season when it is difficult, because of the weather, to dry the baby's diapers out of doors. Clean as the diaper may seem to be, it may develop this disagreeable and suffocating odor, especially on the diaper that is used at night.

The diapers of the child old enough to be dry in daytime are most apt to get a sketchy washing. The mother no longer fears the reaction of a poorly-washed diaper on the child's skin. Sooner or later, though, almost every mother has some experience with this minute organism which, when united with urine, releases ammonia.

The development of this organism may be inhibited if the wet diaper is soaked in vinegar and water before washing. Use a pailful of water, and about one-half cupful of vinegar and wring the diapers from this and wash them in the usual way.

Another effective method is to make the last rinse of boric acid water. Try a half cupful of boric acid solution in a gallon of water and wring the diapers out of this and hang them on the line. Powdered boric acid may be sprinkled on the child's diaper too, if the buttocks are sore.

Boric acid solution may be made with one teaspoon of boric acid, crystals dissolved in one cup of boiling water, or one tablespoon to three cups. Multiply this amount as needed.

The burned buttocks which children suffer as the result of exposure to the strong, amoniacal diaper are often difficult to heal because the baby is so continuously wet.

Take off the wet diapers immediately. Wash the buttocks and dry well. Apply some soothing salve either containing borax or zinc.

To allow the baby to lie without a diaper and with sunlight on the buttocks, will also aid in healing. Remember this is a burn and hurts just the same as one. The condition has to be dealt with both by change in the method of washing the diapers, sometimes by a change in the child's diet, and always by care to soothe the burned area with healing salves.

Our leaflet No. 9, "Diaper Care and Ammoniacal Urine," offers some suggestions about diet. It may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with the request to Myrtle Eldred in care of The Edmonton Bulletin.

line of reasoning that should have prompted East to lead the ace of diamonds, even though West had bid hearts. South had shown a terrific hand when he jumped the bid of one spade to four spades, and when North went from four to six spades, he also showed a great deal of strength. Therefore, Adams said, West's overall of one heart could not have been made on high-card strength; there were not enough high cards in the deck for that. Also, North's six-spade bid showed that he could take good care of the heart suit. Therefore, this was the time to lay down the ace of diamonds and win the all-important trick.

Minute Make-Ups

Here's a Headline, the secret of a Hollywood star! Her hair tangles easily, so she uses the yolk of two eggs for a scalp massage. She then has a warm, no-soap shampoo. A few drops of vinegar in the rinsing water gives just the proper finish.

THESE WOMEN

By d'Alessio

Then comes the time when the primary blaze dies down and you wonder if it is going to continue burning or if it will fizzle out and leave you in the cold and darkness.

During this period of fire building you blow on it and fan it for for all you are worth! Sometimes smoke billows out and almost chokes you but if the materials are good and you invest enough energy and interest in maintaining it, soon the big solid logs catch and your fire takes on new qualities.

Now you not only have the blaze but glowing embers, and a feeling of warmth and comfort and security emanates from the big dependable logs.

Too often in marriage people give up at the fanning and blowing stage. They do not give the logs time to become a part of the fire which the kindling started. They become discouraged and decide that the whole idea was a mistake.

No two people with any individuality can live together without conflicts and adjustments, but the thrill and deep happiness which comes from a marriage of long standing, from years spent together, is as much more desirable than first years as the blazing fire is when compared to the first flare of matchwood.

So, if you are at the fanning and blowing stage, don't forget that the lasting fire is worth the gamble of a few burnt fingers and a little smoke.

If you wish to have my leaflet No. 63 "Keeping Romance Alive" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of The Edmonton Bulletin.

Says John Lewis Through as Leader

WASHINGTON, (NANA)—The supreme court decision holding John L. Lewis in contempt marks his demise as the country's top labor leader, Washington labor officials have predicted.

"For the first time in his long career as a labor leader, he has been licked by the government," a C.I.O. official said. "I think he's through as a top man."

Although officials declined to be quoted by name, another C.I.O. organizer recalled that only once before, in 1910, was Lewis forced to yield. In that year, Lewis called off a strike in the face of government opposition. But the move lacked the finality of the present defeat because Lewis backed down at the last minute, whereas he remained defiant right up to the end this time, he pointed out.

The blow to Lewis' prestige was regarded as a foregone conclusion that he would never lead a unified labor movement in this country, he said. His opponents suspected he might have liked to do before retirement.

"John L. is eating crow at last," a former colleague remarked.

Hope U.K. Tourists To Spend Millions

LONDON, (CP)—Great Britain is hoping that tourists from North America and Europe will spend about $100,000,000 in the old country this summer, but it doesn't promise them any special relief from the general austerity.

London hotelmen say that there are only 100,000 hotel beds in the capital which can be described as "first class." Reservations for them started coming in before Christmas.

Competition is keen. London's summer visitors will include not only 250,000 tourists—20,000 from Canada and 70,000 from the United States among them—but thousands of Britons spending their holidays. Swiss are expected to lead the invasion of European tourists. For Switzerland, like Canada and the United States, doesn't limit the amount of currency that can be taken outside the country. Large numbers of Swedish visitors also are expected.

Once in Britain, tourists go on the same meagre rations as their hosts. But they can bring 25 pounds of food with them, or, if they are staying with friends, precede themselves with 22-pound parcels. If they're wise they'll also bring their own towels and soap. Anything else? "Plenty of tolerance," said a harassed London hotelkeeper.

Student 'Scandal' Topic of Sermon

HALIFAX, (CP)—A recent out-of-town hockey excursion Monday brought more publicity than a Queen Elizabeth high school student expected after the trip became the subject of a sermon, drawing an overflow crowd to a Halifax church.

Police had to help handle the hundreds seeking entrance to the Baptist church last Sunday night as Rev. Gordon S. Vincent criticized the "disgraceful" actions of several students who were disciplined for drinking during the hockey trip last month.

While Mr. Vincent praised the action of the school principal, R. E. Marshall, in giving parents the facts of the incident, a small group in the crowd outside the church began to chant, "Open the door, Vincent!"

The incident which provoked the sermon was made public Sunday by school officials who said several of the 400 students accompanying the hockey team to Kentville, 70 miles away, had drunk liquor despite the fact the excursion was well chaperoned.

As a result, the coach of the team had been dismissed and the offending students lectured and disciplined by being barred from athletics and school functions.

3 Charged in U.S. In Holdup-Torture

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Three Chicago News accused of torturing a Grand Rapids man in a holdup attempt were held here Sunday and a fourth was being sought.

Federal agents from Chicago promptly joined local officers in an attempt to link the case with all alleged country-wide black market in sugar ration stamps.

Police identified the trio as Herbert Foreman, 28, Wallington Heights, 36, and Raymond Lewis, 29.

Police said the three beat another Negro, George Arrington, 33, and burned his feet in an attempt to force him to disclose the whereabouts of his son, Broadway, who is under indictment in Chicago on Office of Price Administration violation charges.

A detective quoted Foreman as saying the three had been tipped that Broadway Arrington recently visited his father here and brought with him a toolbox containing a $30,000 hoard from sugar coupon operations.

Two Men Charged In Jewelry Theft

VICTORIA, (CP)—Two men were under arrest Monday and police had recovered a cardboard box containing $4,000 in jewelry after a robbery at a jewelry store here Sunday.

Police captured John Hefford, 21, Sydney N.S., and Heret Kelly 22, Steveston, B.C., a half-block from the store after an alert newsboy reported seeing a man crawl down an awning.

Hefford pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering Monday and was remanded for sentence, while Kelly pleaded not guilty and elected trial by magistrate.

Big Iron Ore Find in East May Speed Building Seaway

WASHINGTON, (CP)—News of a vast supply of high-grade iron ore in eastern Canada presents the Great Lakes steel industry with a new and important problem.

One result may well be the early construction of the long-delayed Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway. The seaway would permit ore-boats to bring Labrador ore cheaply into the Great Lakes ports which serve the steel mills stretching from Pittsburgh to Chicago.

The mid-west steel industry now depends on ore from Minnesota's fabulous Mesabi range. Minnesota ore is taken to Erie, Cleveland, Detroit, Gary, and to Chicago by the Great Lakes system of ore-boats built especially for this traffic. But the end of high-grade ore from Minnesota is in sight. It has been hastened by years of maximum consumption during the late war.

There is plenty of low-grade Minnesota ore, but it is not really satisfactory methods of using it have not yet been found. In the meantime, American and Canadian interests have taken steps to bring Labrador ore to the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

From the Seven Islands port on the gulf, Labrador ore could be shipped cheaply the year around to the eastern seaboard.

Stiff Competition
Could the Great Lakes steel industry meet such competition? St. Lawrence seaway advocates don't believe it could.

"Appearance of Labrador iron ore on the market," says Dr. N. V. Danielian, executive secretary of the St. Lawrence Seaway associates, "will make it absolutely essential to construct the seaway to stabilize and maintain the Great Lakes steel industry in the middle west."

"Unless the Labrador iron ore can come into the Great Lakes, the only alternative will be for the steel industry to move to the Atlantic coast to take advantage of the new cheap supplies."

Steel is made where coal and iron meet. For the last half-century coal and iron ore have met most cheaply on the southern shores of the Great Lakes. But American coal can and does move cheaply to the Atlantic coast. The Great Bethlehem Steel plant at Sparrows point, Md., uses coal from the Appalachians and iron ore brought by water from abroad.

Enormous Deposits
The tremendous undeveloped Canadian ore deposits lie 300 to 400 miles north of the St. Lawrence in Quebec and Labrador. The deposits are at least 100 miles long.

Recent surveys have shown they can be strip-mined cheaply, and that a railroad can be built without great difficulty from the iron range to the gulf, along the valley of the Moisie river.

The Seven Islands port can be kept open the year around with icebreakers. The ore averages 62 percent iron or higher, compared with 51-55 percent in the Lake Superior region.

Newfoundland and Quebec have granted concessions to the Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines covering 23,900 square miles. The M. A. Hanna Co., Cleveland, has a minority interest in the project, and several million dollars already has been spent on exploration and surveys.

Official Report
A recent report of the Canadian government department of mines and resources has this to say: "The Labrador ore is of exceptional quality, can be mined at unusually low cost, and can be transported to a St. Lawrence port at moderate cost."

"There is an immediate market of important dimensions along the Atlantic seaboard of the United States and Canada where the short voyage and return cargoes of coal will give it an advantage."

"The largest potential market is in the area served by the Lake Superior (Minnesota) mines. It may be possible to serve this to some extent by means of the small vessels that now can use the St. Lawrence canal."

"When the St. Lawrence deep waterways is completed the cost of delivering Labrador ore to buyers in Pennsylvania and Ohio should not be greatly different from the cost of delivering Lake Superior ore."

Seaway advocates hope to get Senator Vandenberg's proposed St. Lawrence resolution through the senate this session. Vandenberg recently announced that Canada had agreed in principle to stipulating that the cost of constructing locks and canals will be repaid out of tolls from use of the waterway.

Attlee Will Name Press Commission

LONDON, (Reuters)—Prime Minister Attlee told the commons Monday he hoped to announce before Easter—April 6—the names of the members of the royal commission which will investigate the conduct of the British press in accordance with a government decision last year.

The young woman with the camera is Miss Constance Bannister, New York photographer who specializes in photographs of babies. Miss Bannister, who became a photographer by accident when she received a camera as a gift, gets as much fun out of photographing children as the babies get out of posing. She works on the theory that every child has an act of its own, and the way to get it to put on this act is "to talk like mad into it is interested, and then suddenly stop talking. The child will go into its act to try and get the camera back." She could be right, as the 10 varied portraits of children above would indicate.

100,000 Japanese in Brazil Don't Know War Has Ended

By John La Cerdá
SAO PAULO, (NANA)—There are 250,000 Japanese in Brazil. An estimated 100,000 of them don't know the war has ended.

Hundreds of others, informed of the surrender, refuse to believe it. Some are conducting a reign of terror against "collaborators."

The American consul general, Cecil M.P. Cross, keeps two rifles and a shotgun in his bedroom as a precaution against eventualities, for he is living in the former residence of the Japanese consul.

Two hundred suspects are in Sao Paulo jails following a series of murders in the city and in Japan. The settlements scattered through the jungles.

One of the murders occurred on a recent Sunday morning as a Japanese started walking to church with his nine-year-old niece. Two assassins shot him through the head and tried to kill the child, but she screamed into a nearby house.

Killed Wrong Man
fallen when they learned they had the police, saying their deed was "for the emperor." They were crestfallen when they learned they had slain the wrong man. The man they had wanted was a clerk in the office of the Swedish consul, who has been handling Japanese government affairs.

Dr. Edmund H. Stinnes, of Haverford, Pa., came here a few weeks ago as a representative of the American Friends service committee to see if the committee might be of some help to those among the Japs who are destitute. He found two leading Japanese, one of them a former Mitsubishi banker, who agreed to supervise local relief activities.

Today, those two men have gone underground in fear of their lives. Never Mention Defeat

Japanese language newspapers in the state never refer to the surrender, according to Cross. Names of Americans are never capitalized. As a result, Cross has asked occupation authorities in Japan to send him copies of Tokyo newspapers, which he intends to distribute, probably by airplane. He also has ordered copies of the imperial rescript in which Hirohito ordered the war to end and his people to obey their conquerors.

Some of the local diehards are former army and navy officers. They have been distributing photographs purporting to show it was the Allies, and not the Japanese, who surrendered. One photograph shows President Truman and Admiral Jonas Ingram on the deck of the battleship Missouri. They are bending over to look at the deck plaque which commemorates the spot upon which the surrender was signed. According to the caption, Truman and Ingram are bowing to the emperor.

At the core of Japanese activities in Brazil are some 800 baseball clubs. The leaders of the clubs are also the political and civic leaders. Cross feels if these men can be replaced, the problem of convincing the people of defeat will be solved. The Brazilian, however, has been lackadaisical about the effort.

10 Former Nazis Sentenced to Die

BELGRADE, (AP)—A military court Sunday sentenced 10 former Nazis, accused of war crimes in Yugoslavia during the German occupation, to be shot.

Three others convicted in the mass trial were sentenced to from eight to 20 years imprisonment at hard labor.

All the defendants were members of the gestapo and other Nazi occupational police organizations. The prosecutor charged them with issuing directives resulting in mass shootings of civilians in Serbia, burning villages, plundering and mass deportations.

China's Union Boss Flees to Hong Kong

HONG KONG, (ONA)—If Phillip Murray had to flee to Bermuda to escape arrest by the G.O.P., his case would be analogous to that of Chu Hsueh-fan, self-exiled president of the Chinese Association of Labor, who has found asylum in the British colony of Hong Kong.

Mr. Chu's crime was in believing that his organization should live up to its name by including unions from Communist as well as Nationalist territory, instead of serving merely as a Kuomintang association. The leader himself, far from being a flaming Red, has been a Kuomintang member for 20 years, and only lost his docility under pressure of his unions and resentment at Kuomintang tactics.

C.A.L. troubles with the government began about V-J Day and increased until the C.A.L. Chungking office was raided, the premises seized and 38 persons arrested. Then Mr. Chu was informed that the property would be returned and the prisoners released on two conditions. The first was to expel all C.A.L. unions in Communist-held areas, and the second was to cable the C.I.O. and the A.F.L. in the United States, as well as the World Federation of Trade Unions, that the Chungking incident was just a local misunderstanding between two rival labor groups.

Mr. Chu rejected both conditions, and came to Hong Kong. Within a week, an automobile crashed into his rickshaw. Many people believe the occurrence was no means an accident. In any event, it resulted in a broken collar-bone and a two months stay in hospital.
